Cardinals National Champs

Defeat Brooklyn in Playoff Series Two Straight Games; to World Series Now

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, Oct. 3—(AP)—St. Louis clinched the National League pennant and a World Series berth opposite the Boston Red Sox today by staving off a ninth-inning Brooklyn rally and defeating the Dodgers, 8-4, while making a clean sweep of baseball's first playoff series.

Murry Dickson, a converted relief artist, had things all his own way with a brilliant two-hitter until the ninth, when he gave way to Harry Brecheen in a three-run ninth-inning that provided the only thrill of the game to the 31,437 spectators.

The Brooks had the bases loaded and the tying run at the plate when pinch hitter Howie Schultz struck out to end the game, the playoff and the regular season, giving Eddie Dyer a pennant in his freshman year as big league manager.

Thus the Cardinals will be hosts to the Red Sox in the first game of the 1946 World Series on Sunday.

Leo Durocher's persistent Dodgers were completely befuddled through the first eight innings as the Cards piled up the runs assurring them of their ninth league title since 1926.

The two teams that had wound up in an exact first place tie at the close of the regular schedule met for the first time in the best-of-three playoff set at St. Louis Tuesday where the Cardinals banged out a 4-2 edge behind Howie Pollet. Dickson's performance provided another amozing chapter in one of baseball's strangest seasons. The wiry righthander from Tracy, Mo., hadn't started a game until June 9 and had not been considered worthy of a starting job the last time the Red Birds visited Brooklyn.

Play-by-Play

First Inning Cards

Schoendienst grounded out to Hatten on a 3 and 2 pitch. Moore lined a single to left on the first pitch. Hank Behrman, right hander, was already warming up for the Dodgers. Furillo made a fine running catch of Musial's drive to right center and Moore just got back to first to prevent a double play. Kurowski raised

Byrnes Echoes Stalin Remark

That There is No Immediate Danger of War

By Relman Morin

PARIS, Oct. 3—(AP)—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes declared today that "The conflict of viewpoints among the Allies" is serious, but he echoed a recent statement by Prime Minister Stalin that there is no immediate danger of war.

Byrnes spoke at a luncheon of the American club in Paris.

"After every great war which has been won by the combined efforts of many nations, there has been a conflict among the Allies in the making of peace," Byrnes said in his prepared address. "It would be folly to deny the seriousness of the conflict in viewpoints among the Allies after this war.

Concurs With Stalin

"To ignore that conflict or minimize its seriousness will not solve the conflict nor help us along the road to peace.

"To exaggerate that conflict and its seriousness, on the other hand, only makes more difficult the resolution of the conflict.

"I concur most heartily in the view recently expressed by Generalissimo Stalin that there is no immediate danger of war. I hope that his statement will put an end to the unwarranted charges that any nation or group of nations is seeking to encircle the Soviet Union, or that the responsible leaders of the Soviet Union so believe."

Nazi Leaders Acquitted to British Zone

Guaranteed Safe Conduct in the American Zone

NUERNBERG, Oct. 3—(AP)—Franz von Papen, Hans Fritsche and Hjalmar Schacht, the three Nazi leaders acquitted by the international military tribunal, will be escorted to the British zone tonight or tomorrow by American military personnel, defense counsel said tonight.

All three will be taken to Hamburg, from whence Schacht will proceed to his home in Schleswig-Holstein, counsel said.

It could not be learned whether the former German financier would be provided with escort after his arrival in Hamburg.

Fritsche, former deputy propaganda minister, sent his wife to Hamburg yesterday and expressed hope she would be there when he arrived.

Anton Pfeiffer, chief de-Nazification officer for Bavaria, announced he had been instructed to give the three a guarantee of "safe conduct," protecting them from arrest by German de-Nazification courts in the American zone.

Taking Secret Route

Defense counsel said the trio would leave at an unannounced time and would follow a secret route, all in the same automobile. Just what type of escort would be provided was not announced.

The protection granted the three from protection by courts in the American zone, Pfeiffer stressed, is temporary, covering only their departure from the Nuernberg jail and the zone.

Pfeiffer said he got his instructions from Brig. Gen. Walter Muller, U. S. military governor of Bavaria, who in turn got them from Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy military governor in Berlin.

Instructing Police

The Bavarian indicated that the instructions are being handed down to the Nuernberg German police, who already had been armed with orders to arrest all three as soon as they left jail and bring them before the de-Nazification court.

Cordell Hull Most Critical

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—Cordell Hull's condition continues to be "most critical," the navy reported today.

A 9 a. m. bulletin from Bethesda, Md., Naval hospital, where the former secretary of state suffered a stroke Monday said:

"Mr. Hull had a very poor night. His condition continues to be most critical."

The Tennessean had a sinking spell last night. The hospital's 10 a. m. bulletin said his condition, which until then had been termed serious, "is now considered to have become critical.

Even before he took the turn for the worse, hospital officials said, Hull had been unable to read scores of messages from many parts of the world offering birthday congratulations and wishes for his recovery. Included was one from President Truman. Hull was 75 yesterday.

Postponement Bomb Test Still Stands

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—President Truman asserted today that his recent indefinite postponement of the third atomic bomb test in the Pacific still stands.

A reporter told him in a news conference that the Armored Cavalry Journal had reported that the test—projected as a deep underwater blast—would be held.

The president replied that his previous statement indefinitely postponing this test still stood. He did not elaborate.

Kiwanis Club Hears Talk by Geo. H. Scruton

Briefly Made so Members Can Follow The Ball Game

National Newspaper Week was observed by the Sedalia Kiwanis club meeting in Bothwell hotel Thursday noon. A short talk was given by George H. Scruton, editor of the Sedalia Democrat.

In the absence of the Rev. Fr. A. J. Brunswick, president, Pinkney Miller, vice president, presided. Dr. H. B. Hunter was program chairman and introduced the speaker.

Also on the program was a Barber Shop harmony quartette composed of Abe Rosenthal, Ralph Benningfield, J. T. Alexander and Neal Powers.

J. T. Alexander and E. S. Stockton, former members, were welcomed back to membership in the club by the Rev. H. U. Campbell and Ray Jiedel.

Treat of Cigars

Dan Robinson, a new father, and Dr. Hunter, a grandfather, were complimented by the club singing "Rockable Baby," following which Robinson treated the members to cigars. Doc's cigars are held in reserve for the October 17 meeting.

T. H. Yount announced the club would hold a joint meeting with the Optimist club next Tuesday noon, instead of holding the regular meeting on Thursday.

Guests were Kenneth Bucholtz, with E. R. Peterson; Neal Powers, with Ralph Beningfield, and D. C. Tauchert, New York, with Jack Crawford.

Special Agents to Investigate Primary

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—The house campaign expenditures committee announced today it is sending two special agents to investigate the Missouri Democratic primary campaign in which Enos Axtell defeated Rep. Slaughter for re-nomination. Axtell was supported by President Truman.

Chairman Priest (D-Tenn) told newsmen the investigation is being made in response to a complaint by Jerome Walsh, third candidate in the race, who contends that excessive expenditures there had "the makings of a national scandal."

Couldn't Lose That Much Meat

ECHARDON, O., Oct. 3—(AP)—"I couldn't let all that meat get away," said Mrs. Fitch. She didn't.

It happened at Montville, near here. Mrs. Wilford Fitch discovered that a sow had squeezed out of her pen at the Fitch farm and had fallen into a 20-foot well.

"No one else was at home, so I climbed down the well and put a rope around her to keep her afloat," she said.

Then she telephoned a garage, about a half mile away and a ton truck hustled over to the farm.

Mrs. Fitch, who weighs 122, went down into the well again and hitched a chain around the rope holding the huge animal. The ton truck did the rest

The rescued sow won't become meat immediately, however.

"She just had a litter of pigs so she's not on the table yet," explained Mrs. Fitch.

No Indication Of Relief From Meat Shortage

Truman Says 'In Near Future,' Others 'Not for Some Time'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—President Truman agreed with reconversion director John R. Steelman today that the meat shortage may grow worse this winter.

The president said there is no conflict between a report released today by Steelman and his own views expressed to a news conference last week.

The president, asked at today's news conference if there was a discrepancy, said he had conceded that there will be meat shortage ahead even though he looked for improvement soon but that there will be no meat famine.

That, the president said, does not imply a difference between the two views.

Told that Steelman said the meat shortage would grow worse this winter, the president said he was having a survey made and that Steelman may be correct.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The great disappearing hog and cattle act, a colossal presentation now featured at all livestock markets, rolled into its second breath-taking month today before a nation-wide audience watching with baffled eyes and meatless digestive tracts.

It was on September 3, the day after Labor day, that the curtain went up on this unparalleled spectacle of the magician's art—to show livestock pens, jammed the week before, empty except for a few dried-up cows and emaciated pigs.

Since then the act has been repeated daily to an utterly unappreciative clientele, and agriculture department statistics for September showed receipts at record lows.

A minor feature of the performance, somewhat overlooked in the concentration on the all-star shortage, is the fact that the beef cows today, in a market controlled by price ceilingfs, are selling at higher prices than they were in the free markets of July and August.

Traders Bewildered

L. M .Wyatt, head of the local livestock branch of the argiculture department, said good cows brought $14.00-$15.50 late last August and $15.25-$17.25 now, while medium grades had advanced from $11.75-$14.00 to $12.50-$15.25. Beef cows are a major part of the present small arrivals.

How anyone could buy livestock at higher prices, and sell meat at lower prices, and still make a profit, was an incidental item of bewilderment to traders.

With the second month of the performance starting, most critics were predicting it would be taken off the boards. But they couldn't agree on when.

President Truman predicted "in the near future," but price decontrol board chairman Thompson said it would be "some time"; Deputy OPA Administrator Baker gave it "two to four weeks," but Reconversion Director Steelman forecast the shortage "will become worse this winter."

Third Fire in About Six Months

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Fire swept a Kansas City rooming house for the third time in about six months today, and Joshua Lakey, 77, a resident, was dangerously burned.

Three children died in a blaze in the brick building last April. A second fire there about a month later was confined to a closet.

Firemen believe a kerosene stove became overseated or exploded, starting today's blaze.

Baruch Answers Wallace

Demands he Correct Publicly 'Mistakes' He States Wallace Admits he Made

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, United States delegate to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, stood firmly today on a sharp demand that Henry A. Wallace correst publicly the "mistakes" that Baruch said Wallace made in criticizing the United States atomic control plan.

Speaking with deep feeling at a news conference last night, the 76-year-old elder statesman declared that Wallace had admitted personally to him last Friday in his office here that he was in error and then had not signed a statement acknowledging the asserted errors which was prepared later by representatives of Baruch and Wallace at their direction.

Baruch made it clear that the United States delegation could not consider any modification in the "fundamental principles" of its plan, which was attacked at length by Wallace in a letter on foreign policy written last July 23 while Wallace then was secretary of commerce.

Released Statements

The United States delegate released, with the direct authorization of President Truman, a long memorandum to the president an-

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—President Truman declined today to comment on a controversy between Bernard M. Baruch and Henry A. Wallace over atomic energy control.

Asked about the statement by Baruch asserting the former commerce secretary was creating "confusion and division among our people," the President would not comment.

He did say that Baruch, who is the U. S. delegate to the United Nations atomic energy commission, had not cleared his statement with him and added it was a matter between Baruch and Wallace.

"Dear Major Green:

"Reference is made to your letter dated September 17, 1946, concerning the future use of Sedalia Army Air Field, Missouri.

"The recent inactivation of Sedalia Army Air Field was the result of a shortage of personnel which is apparent throughout the Army Air Forces, and not due to a change of plans for the utilization of this field. Gen. Bradley Scores Legion Commander

In Address at National Convention In San Francisco

By P. D. Eldred

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The American Legion convention, by a noisy voice vote today adopted a resolution censuring the Veterans' Administration and demanding a special congressional session to repeal limitations on the veterans' on the job training program.

The convention thus supported the Legion's national commander, John Stelle, of Illinois, in his hot personal feud with Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veterans' administrator, who defended his policies in a speech yesterday.

Stelle upbraided Bradley at length today in a fiery speech which preceded the vote on the resolution.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3—(AP)—The American Legion convention turned today to consideration of the controversial "on-the-job-training" issue while still fresh in the minds of the delegates was the demunication by General Omar N. Bradley of their national commander's position on the subject.

Bradley, head of the Veterans' Administration, roundly scored Legion Commander John Steele in address to the convention yesterday.

Steele has accused Bradley of "breaking faith" with the veterans in approving a $200 ceiling for on-the-job veteran training.

In his speech, Bradley retorted that Steele was attacking a law enacted by congress "which prevents a privileged minority of veterans from profiting unfairly by the GI bill."

Reminding the convention that the Veterans' Administration is "first an agency of the government," he added that so long as he is administrator the agency "will no nothing to surrender the welfare of this nation to special interests of any minority."

Debate Is Open

"I am charged by my host—your national commander—with breaking faith with the veteran because I have sided with congress in an effort to defend the rights of all veterans against the encroachment of a privileged few," he added.

"Your national commander has elected to be spokesman for this minority group of veterans whose incomes incomes exceed the level beyond which congress will not longer supplement their wages in trainin_."

As he abruptly closed his address, Bradley turned and strode from the rostrum, passing red-faced Steele as the latter came forward.

"Nobody admires guts more than I do," steels shouted as he reached the microphone. "Anybody who wants to debate the subject can do so tomorrow when the national commander will be on the floor with the Illinois delegation.

Asks Business To Maintain Production

Steelman Speaks Against General Big Wage Increases

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—President Truman today called on business, labor and consumers to do their "utmost to keep industrial peace and to "maintain production."

He said in a news conference statement that the reconversion record thus far "adds up to a splendid achievement."

"But," he added, "we must not pause to congratulate ourselves. A difficult struggle lies before us.

"We must do our utmost to keep industrial peace, to maintain production at present levels where it is high and to spur it to higher levels where it is lagging."

Mr. Truman said he hopes that every businessman, worker, farmer and consumer will "take to heart" that "an all-out emphasis on production of finished goods and on preventing a further increase in prices is the task immediately before us."

Could Bring Economic Ruin

He singled out the latter expression of opinion from the quarterly report of reconversion director John R. Steelman. The chief executive's statement was made in connection with the report.

Steelman cautioned that a further rapid price rise might lead to "an early and severe" economic collapse with serious economic and social consequences.

Steelman also spoke out bluntly against a general round of "large" wage increases at this time.

He said these could benefit "only special groups," and in general would do so "at the expense of fellow workers throughout the nation."

The cashier discovered the robbery when he reported for work at 9:15 a. m. The burglars, who pried open a rear door, entered the vault by chiseling an 18-inch hole through the 20-inch thick wall of the vault.

Airplane Crashes, 39 Dead

Tragedy Occurs in Rugged Hills of Newfoundland; No Survivors

STEPHENVILLE, Nfld., Oct. 3—(AP)—An American Airlines plane bearing 39 persons from New York to Berlin, crashed early today in rugged hills 10 miles from Harmon Field, near here, and a search party which reached the scene reported there were "no survivors."

The rescue party had ploughed through miles of woods and underbrush to reach the fire-scarred wreckage of the big skymaster.

A United States coast guard helicopter plane left Gander airport early this afternoon for the scene of the disaster. Gander Field is 225 miles east of Stephenville.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—American Overseas Airlines announced today the list of passengers of the DC-4 which crashed near Stephenville, Newfoundland.

The passengers are those who boarded the plane at La Guardia Field yesterday morning en route to Stephenville. The company explained that some passengers may have debarked upon landing at the Newfoundland port.

The list includes:

Ethel Agnes Miessler, 47, of 2701 East Douglas, Wichita, Kansas, housewife.

Dorothy Gertrude McCormick, 26, Box 272 Lebanon, Mo., housewife.

Mary Jane Merrill, 32, of 513 North Franklin, Farmington, Mo., housewife. (Booked from New York to Berlin.)

Aboard the giant airliner were 31 passengers and a crew of eight. Many of the women were housewives enroute to Europe to join their husbands. The children's ages ranged from three months to eleven years old.

Enroute to Berlin

The four engine DC-4 Skymaster was enroute from New York to Berlin and plunged into the side of a rocky hill 10 minutes after it left Stephenville, Nfld., at 3:24 a. m. (EST). It left New York yesterday at 10:35 a. m.

The Air France captain, Jacques Charmos, said he was at Hammon field, Stephenville, ten miles from the scene of the crash when it occurred.

"I could see the glow of the explosion before I took off," he said, "after the takeoff, we circled the wreck. The plane hit the side of a hill quite high up and was still smoking.

The light was poor and I could not identify any part of the plane. I saw a burnt spot on the hillside. It is a fairly wooded hill. I could see no path cut through the trees. The plane probably went straight into the hill."

Earlier reports to the coast guard indicated the plane hit one-half mile up the side of the hill and 100 feet from the top of the slope, which is covered with rocks and scrub trees.

Capt. Charmoz said the 42 persons in his plane, 12 of them women, caught a glimpse of the wreckage.

Fire Smoldering

Another description of the wreckage was given by Robert Albee of (4 Dartmouth street) Forest Hills, N. Y., navigator on the French plane.

"Our plane circled the wreck at 1,500 feet," Albee related. "I could not see the actual fire, but the whole plane was smouldering. The fire had died down quite a bit, but there still was a glow."

The navigator said PBYs were landing four to five miles from the wreckage.

Earlier, the coast guard said it was raining in the area and that the PBYs probably would have to come down enroute.

The coast guard, in a radio message sent at 9:48 a. m., (EST) said three persons, believed to be Newfoundland civilians, were at the scene and an army searching party was at the foot of the hill to which the plane crashed.

The message said the searching party had one-half mile to go The plane crashed 100 feet from the top o fthe hill, which is covered with rocks and scrub trees.

Explodes After Crash

The message, sent from a coast guard plant at the scene, said the airliner appeared to have exploded after the crash and that only a tiny fragment of the ship was visible. There was a heavy rain at the time.

It was the second plane tragedy in the Newfoundland wilds in two weeks. On Sept. 18 a Belgian Sabena airliner crashed near Gander, killing 27 of the 44 aboard.

Stephenville is on the west coast of Newfoundland, 927 air miles from New York and approximately 225 miles west of Gander.

Better Roads For County Advocated

Plan to do Away With Patch Work System and Establish County Wide Project

As a candidate for public office it is my duty to inform the voting public of the program I intend to follow if elected.

The County Court is the body directly responsible to the citizens of the county for the type of roads they may have. The county is judged to a large extent by its roads and the pride a citizen takes in his county is directly dependent on its roads.

Dr. M. E. Gouge

To have good and well-maintained roads requires planning, and my plan is to do away with the patchwork system of road maintenance and embark on a coordinated road-building program on a county-wide basis under the supervision of competent, efficient men, interested in road building.

The federal government has a road-building program.

The state of Missouri has a road-building program.

Pettis county MUST have a plan.

A large amount of money is allotted to this county by the state, provided we qualify with an acceptable plan.

Money is made available to counties having a plan for use on milk routes and school bus routes at the rate of $750 per mile. This alone makes it imperative for us to have a definite road-building program.

I will discuss my program and road-building plans with the people between now and the election and let you decide whom you want to represent you on the County Court.

Dr. M. E. Gouge,
Candidate Presiding Judge.

Reporters Welcome White House Conferences

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—News conferences, like lambstew on a chilly evening, are a welcome dish here these days. This is the dreary season in Washington.

When Congress is here, news tumbles in bursting bundles out of the capitol, where somebody is always mad at somebody and never pleased with things as they are.

But Congress is away now and won't be back till January. So news from the capitol comes only in dribbles.

There still is news here, of course. And much of it is of first rank importance because it affects the whole country. But still, it only comes in jerks.

So batttalions of newsmen gladly, and hopefully, trudge around to the news conferences. Looking for green pastures and a tidy item.

The best and most far-reaching conferences, now as at any other time, are held most regularly at the White House, where President Truman does the conducting, and at the state department, where foreign affairs are always the subject.

No Rule for Questions

The White House conferences are always the most respectful, and newsmen, crowded in the oval room around Mr. Truman's desk, say again and again, "Mr. President, would you care to comment on so and so?"

There's no rule about the manner of asking the question. Sometimes a direct question is shot at the President.

Since many of the newsmen are interested in some one subject, these individuals come prepared to ask a question about that subject only. Mr. Truman can always duck by saying, "No comment."

When he attempts to answer a question right off the cuff, as he has had a habit of doing, it may get him in trouble, as it has, unless he's very sure of the answer he gives and how he gives it.

Secretary of State Byrnes has the top state department conferences when he's in town. But he's in Paris now at the peace conference. Undersecretary of State Acheson has the big conferences in Byrnes' place.

Acheson, heavily mustached, with a Yale and Harvard background, a great many years around Washington, a quick mind, and large, intelligent eyes, does a polished job at his conferences.

Acheson At Ease

He's always at ease. Byrnes is more tense, in spite of his years in congress and his time on the supreme court.

All through the Byrnes and Acheson conferences, the questions usually are prefaced with the title "Mr. Secretary." For example: "Mr. Secretary, what is the position of this country on so and so?"

These two men—and, in fact, anyone else (below the President) who has a news conference—leaves himself open to a strenuous grilling when he steps into the conference room.

Sometimes the questions are loaded, in an attempt to trip up the man holding the conference.

And sometimes an answer is snapped out—say by a military man who is talking like a sailor or soldier and forgets to think what he says will sound like to diplomats. That sets up bitter reaction abroad.

At times like these, the answer may be regarded abroad not as an innocent, too-quick answer, but as part of a plan or plot to shout American defiance to the rest of the world.

Maybe this sort of thing happens sometimes. But most of the time it's somebody talking too much too fast.

Going Down This Way is Out

Fireman! Walk, Don't Slide To the Nearest Fire Engine

By NEA Service

Shed a tear for the old brass pole in the fire house, boys.

The experts say it went out of style when fire horses were sent into retirement, and all it does now is make little boys who hang around the fire house open their mouths in awe when the firemen slide down.

"There is no longer the excuse that the men have to hurry to catch the horses that used to be released by the alarm," says the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The Board contends that the sliding pole and the spiral stairway are "serious offenders in the accident world," and how can an injured fireman fight a fire?

The Underwriters grant that the firemen have to get downstairs in a hurry more than ever these days. As National Fire Prevention Week gets under way, the fire losses for the year in the U. S. have blazed to a new high of $378,323,000—which is 25 per cent higher than last year's total at the same date. But these experts feel that if the firemen stop sliding and come down the stairways there will be more of them around to fight the fires.

"One of the answers, the Underwriters say in a bulletin on fire station construction, "is to make fire stations one story wherever possible, and never over two stories, and provide two or more stairways from any upper floor."

If the sliding descent is out, however, the Underwriters have no quarrel with another item that is as much a part of the fireman's tradition as the brass pole. That's checker playing. The experts are strong for ample recreation facilities for the firemen—reading, study, and a good yard and flowers.

The word study is important. The fireman has to know a lot these days to pass the stiff civil service examinations on which many cities base their promotions.

101 Things to Know

For fire fighting, he has to know a hundred and one things involving hydraulics, chemistry, plumbing and construction. For fire prevention, he must become an expert in locating hazards, remembering layouts in which he may some day have to fight a fire.

The best way for him to become an expert in all these things is to go to school. The fire prevention engineers would like to see a big expansion of the basic idea of the school for rookie firemen into a sort of fire college that will keep the experienced fireman on his toes and up to date on the latest methods.

Into this continuing training, the practice should be done under the same conditions firemen would meet at a major fire. And the school fires should be burning, too, to give the training its full scope.

The school, however, should not include a brass pole.

Theft Reported To Police

Mrs. Julia Bradbury, 420 East Sixth street, reported to the police Wednesday evening that a man broke into her home sometiem in the afternoon and took a flashlight, a German dagger and a German made Sam Brown belt. A "piggy" bank was broken open and pennies were taken. The neighbors reported seeing a man around the house who said he was looking for Mrs. Bradbury.

Suggests Subsidy On Livestock

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 3—(AP)—The quickest way to put meat on the table now is to pay cattle and hog producers a subsidy, Joe O'Bryan, operator of a 15,000 acre ranch near Hiattville, Kas., said here Wednesday.

An immediate subsidy to offset the effect of $2 corn would bring cattle and hogs into the market stockyards by Monday, asserted O'Bryan, who is chairman of the Hog Producers Advisory Committee.

Livestock that has been fed $2 corn cannot be sold "at the present ceiling prices without the producers taking a tremendous loss," he said.

"So producers are coasting the animals along and waiting for the arrival of $1 to $1.25 corn which can be expected in the next couple months," O'Bryan continued in an interview. "They will feed the cheaper corn to animals, hoping to add a little more weight and reduce the investment of $2 corn in the stock.

"If the government would put a $4 subsidy on hogs for October, then scale it down to $3 in November, 2 in December, $1 in January and 50 cents in February, hogs would return to the market. By March all hogs on the market would have been fed cheaper corn and would not require a subsidy."

The hog producers advisory committee is not ready to ask that ceiling prices be taken off hogs, O'Bryan said.

"Decontrol would not help in the present emergency anyway. We need immediate action which the OPA could give through the subsidy."

He estimated that cattle fed $2 corn must sell at 25 to 30 cents a pound for the producer to break even. The top-grade cattle ceiling is $19.90 a hundred pounds.

J. T. Abney on Program at Shops Meeting

Tells of His 46 Years of Service With Railroads

The Sedalia Booster club held its October meeting during the noon hour at the local shops last Tuesday with F. G. Rose, chief booster, presiding.

Rose commented on the civic needs in Sedalia and he urged everyone to get behind our civic organizations for the welfare of the city. He brought to the attention of the employes the Community Chest Drive, stating this drive will be conducted along the same lines as in the past and he asked employes to give liberally. This would probably be the only drive, with the exception of the Red Cross, to be held.

Rose then presented Everett Johnson, special machinist apprentice, who was recently elected president of the Apprentice club. Johnson responded with a few remarks, relating briefly the history of the Apprentice club and stating that during the war the club had not functioned but now that a large majority of the boys have returned from the armed service and were desirous of re-organizing.

Purpose of Club

He stated the club is for education and social activity. They plan to have speakers at each of their meetings, supervisors, leaders of labor organizations as well as other well known speakers who could be secured.

The principal speaker of the day was presented in the person of J. T. Abney, a hammersmith in the blacksmith shop, who retired from active service on September 30th this year after 46 years of railroad service.

Abney responded with an interesting talk on his railroad career and a plea for safety first. He stated that he started in the railroad business with the Burlington railroad in 1900. He then worked on the Chicago Northwestern at a shop where they turned out 100 engines per month. Mr. Abney worked on the D & R G in Salt Lake City and for the Terminal in St. Louis as well as for the Frisco. He came to Sedalia in 1906 as a blacksmith where he remained until his retirement.

Proud of Career

"I am proud of my railroad career and especially am I proud of the fact that all during my 46 years service I never had a reportable injury. I tried to abide by the safety rules wherever I worked and was careful before doing a job to see that everything was in good working order."

Mr. Abney stated he started work at the rate of 32 cents per hour as a blacksmith and at the time of retirement was getting $1.46½ per hour. I was able to work myself up to this rate by being faithful to my employer, doing my work and working safely," he said.

In closing Mr. Abney said there were 711 rules in the Safety Rule book and they should be studied over and over and put into practice. He added, "The oldest safety rules were the Ten Commandments, written years ago, and in my mind they are the greatest safety laws I know of." He quoted the Ten Commandments as he finished.

Superintendent Speaks

Rose then presented C. R. Kilbury, superintendent of shops, who closed the meeting with a talk concerning the output of Sedalia shops, the amount of income paid out to the local employes and the important subject of Safety First.

Mr Kilbury expressed his appreciation to Mr. Abney for his splendid talk and his safety record and invited him to come out to see his many friends in the shops any time.

Mr. Kilbury, in his remarks, stated that the word "Think" is most important and this could be applied in a number of ways. We all must do a little thinking and to protect your fellowmen. "We must have production, but production is nothing compared to the subject of Safety First."

He was graduated from the Smith-Cotton high school in the class of 1946 and enlisted in the army on June 3.

New Policy in The Pacific

By Don Whitehead

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 3—(AP)—A new U. S. navy policy in the Pacific calling for a strong Aleutian base near Siberia and extension of its outpost 3,000 miles westward to Guam was announced today.

The policy was made public at a press conference by Adm. John H. Towers, commander of the Pacific fleet, who conferred only Monday with President Truman and high ranking officials in Washington.

Towers declared that Guam, 3,318 miles west of Pearl Harbor, would be turned into an outpost as strategically important as this Hawaii naval base — long the symbol of U. S. navy might in the Pacific.

The admiral said the new Pacific policy would be to concentrate permanent naval installations in Alaska, the Aleutians, Hawaii and in the Marianas, which include Guam.

This would include permanent facilities for surface warships as well as navy air bases.

"It is obvious," Towers said, 'that we need a base further in the Pacific. Because of the mobility and range of surface and air fleets it is necessary that we extend our Pacific outpost beyond Pearl Harbor.

"Guam fills this need and it will be equqally as important, but not so large, as Pearl Harbor."

Flip Car Over Near Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Movie strike violence today shifted to a heretofore unpicketed studio—Republic—where a car trying to enter the gate was flipped over by some of the hundreds of milling unionists.

Only a few pickets appeared at the seven major studios originally involved in the labor dispute. Even at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, scene of most of the fighting in the current strike, less than a dozen men were "on the bricks."

Today's action followed a meeting of the Screen Actors Guild last night, at which a proposal that actors observe the picket lines of the conference of studio unions was "overwhelmingly" rejected.

Board Adjourns: No Action on Dairy Products

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The price decontrol board adjourned indefinitely today without making any move to restore price ceilings on milk, butter, cheese and other dairy products.

A spokesman for the board said, however, that the subject of recontrol of dairy products is left open and may be taken up at any time on a call of Chairman Roy L. Thompson.

confusion and division among our people."

Wallace was not available for comment in Washington last night. However, an associate said Wallace had not broken off his exchange on the matter with Baruch but had telephoned a suggested statement yesterday afternoon to Ferdinand Eberstadt, Baruch assistant. The Wallace associate said Eberstadt was to have called Wallace back later but did not do so.

Wallace Resigned

Wallace resigned recently as secretary of commerce at the request of President Truman as the result of Wallace's differences with Secretary of State Byrnes' on American foreign policy. He disagreed with Byrnes' policy in a speech in New York on September 12. His letter of July 23, setting forth his views on foreign policy, was released September 17. His resignation came shortly afterwards.

Baruch said his difference with Wallace was the first time he had clashed with a public official on a political matter in his long career. He said he had always before dealt in "facts."

In the telegram to Wallace, dispatched, Baruch said, after repeated efforts to have Wallace issue a public correction, Baruch said he was "disappointed and shocked by your suggestion, over the telephone late Monday afternoon, September 30, as to the method of correcting certain misstatements contained in your letter to the president, dated July 23.

Not Fully Posted

"You yourself said to me that I would not like it. That was putting it mildly, for there was nothing in your outline that admits the errors in your letter to the president, errors that you yourself said at our meeting on last Friday, September 27, had arisen from the fact that you 'obviously had not been fully posted as to the facts.'

"When you left me Friday afternoon, after three hours of discussion, you said that you had regretted your failue to have talked with the American delegation to the Atomic Energy Commission before composing your letter to the president, which you wrote on July 23 . You also volunteered your approval of the course we have been following on each of the points covered in my memorandumto the president.

Suggestion Agreeable

"After our discussion. you instructed your associate, Mr. Philip Hauser, (former deputy chief of the census bureau and later assistant to the secretary of commerce) to get together with Mr. Herbert Swope, one of my associates, to draw up a statement indicating the mistakes in your letter and showing your approval of our position based on your full understanding of the facts. After several hours they succeeded in drafting a proposed statement for your signature. It was wholly agreeable to your representative and accepted by me and my group. I assured my colleagues of my conviction that you would carry out what was regarded as a fair expression of your attitude as stated to me on Friday morning. I now find I was wrong

Discussed Other Questions

"We were unable to reach you Friday night, Saturday or Sunday and it wasn't until late Monday that I heard from you. In the proposed statement which you telephoned me on Monday afternoon, you failed to say you had not been fully informed nor did you express approval of the course I have been following on the points originally criticized by you. Instead, you proceeded to discuss other questions that had no bearing upon the misstatements regarding atomic energy contained in your letter to the president.

"Since Monday we have made further efforts to bring you back to the position which you took following our talk last Friday, when you were willing to make public the correction of errors which you freely admitted to us in private. These efforts have not succeeded.

Errors Uncorrected

"As a result, these errors stand uncorrected by you. They are gravely dangerous to the delicate negotiations now under way way. They create confusion and division among our people. Further, this division is to be deepened and the errors repeated by means of republication on your letter to the president in a pamphlet which you informed us was to be issued by a group which is backing your position and which you say is for wide publication.

"Yours is a resonsibility for impairing the support of the American proposals which you frankly approved once your misunderstands had been corrected.

"You have disappointed me sorely. Your reluctance publicly to correct your mistakes tends to confusion and distrust. Certainly confidence and faith cannot be achieved by misstatements of fact. That method only adds to dissention."

Baruch told newsmen that Wallace did not give any reason for not signing the statement. "He just changed his mind," Baruch added.

United States Is Rebuffed

PARIS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The United States was rebuffed, 7 to 5, by a peace conference commission today in an attempt to slash $100,000,000 from Hungarian reparations to Russia and two other Slav countries, after a Soviet delegate assailed the proposal as an "unfriendly act."

U. S. State Department Representative Willard Thorp, who said he presented the amendment in an attempt to save Hungary's economy from collapse, also sought to cut $100,000,000 from the reparations to be paid by Finland.

The American defeat quickly followed a western nation victory in the long and bitter fight over Trieste in the Italian political and territorial commission.

Only Australia, Canada, New Zealand and South Africa supported the United States move to reduce Hungary's payments to Russia, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia from $300,000,000 to $200,000,000. The commission adopted the Russian-backed provision under which Russia is to get two thirds of this total, Yugoslavia, $70,000,000 and Czechoslovakia, $30,000,000.

a high fly to Furillo in short center. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

First Inning Dodgers

Dickson fanned Stanky on three pitches but when Kluttz dropped the third strike Stanky ran toward first but was out Kluttz to Musial. After missing a curve ball, Whitman grounded out, Schoendienst to Musial. Galan was credited with a single when he outfooted a high bounder past the mound on which Schoendienst made a nice stop but threw badly to first. After pitching nothing but strikes to the first three batters F. Walker walked on four straight pitches. Stevens rammed a single through Dickson's legs into center field scoring Galan and sending F. Walker to second. Munger began warming up in the Cardinal bull pen. Moore romped into right center to pull in Furillo's long fly. One run, two hits, no errors, two left.

Second Inning Cardinals

Galan scooped up Slaughter's bounding ball near third base and threw to Stevens for the put out. Dusak smashed a long line drive to left field which Whitman touched but failed to hold, Dusak going all the way to third. The Dodgers protested bitterly over umpire Reardon's decision but to no avail. Dusak was credited with a triple. Marion lifted to Furillo in medium center and Dusak running after the catch beat Furillo's throw to tie the score. Kluttz whistled a single between short and second into center. Dickson lined a triple to the right field wall between Furillo and F. Walker to score Kluttz with the run that put the Cards ahead 2 to 1. Schoendienst popped to Stevens. Two runs, three hits, no errors, one left.

Second Inning Dodgers

Reese was called out on strikes, and again Kluttz dropped the ball and had to throw to Musial for the put out. Edwards walked on five pitches. Hatten, attempting to sacrifice, bunted sharply to Dickson who threw to Marion at second base to force Edwards. Dickson also took Stanky's bounder and threw him out. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Third Inning Cards

After looking at two called balls, Moore grounded out, Stanky to Stevens. Stanky also scooped up Musial's hot grounder and threw him out. Kurowski worked the count to 3 and 2 and walked. It was the first pass issued by Hatten. Whitman came in fast for Slaughter's high pop in back of short. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Fourth Inning Cards

Galan whipped out Dusak on a fast play. Marion worked the count to 3 and 2 and walked after Hatten threw three straight balls to Kluttz, left hander Vic Lombardi left the Dodger dugout for the bull pen. Reese raced in back of third to make a splendid stop of Dickson's slow roller and with a perfect underhand toss to Stanky forced Marion at second. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Fourth Inning Dodgers

Dusak hauled in Stevens' fly near the left field foul line. After fouling off two pitches on a 3 and 2 count, Furillo popped weakly to Marion just behind the mound. Kurowski backed up for Reese's sharp grounder and made a long throw to first for the out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fifth Inning Cardinals

Schoendienst flied to Furillo in left center. Moore swung under a high breaking curve and sent a high pop to Reese. Musial lined a double against the right field wall. It was the Cardinals first hit since the second inning. Kurowski was purposely passed. Slaughter slammed a triple off the right center field wall to score Musial and Kurowski and to increase the Cardinals lead to 4 to 1. Dusak sent a blistering drive past the head of Hatten out into center field, Slaughter coming in with the third St. Louis run and the fifth of the game. Behrman with an 11 and 5 won and lost record and one win and no defeats against the Cards replaced Hatten on the mound. Marion lined a single to center for his first hit of the series, sending Dusak to third. F. Walker came in to take Kluttz's fly in short right. Three runs, four hits, no errors, two left.

Fifth Inning Dodgers

Edwards worked the count to 3 and 2 and walked for the second time. Hermanski, a lefthanded batter swung for Behrman. Dickson hooked over a beautiful curve ball, which Hermanski took for a third called strike. When Stanky took his place at the plate, catcher Kluttz complained that his right foot was outside the batter's box and umpire Pinelli ordered Stanky to get nearer to the plate. After fouling off two pitches, Stanky hit into a double play, Dickson to Marion to Musial. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Sixth Inning Cardinals

Lombardi (13-10) who has dropped three decisions to the Cards, went to the mound to pitch the sixth inning. Reese knocked down Dickson's hot smash but the Cardinal pitcher beat the throw to first base for a single. Schoendienst sacrificed Dickson to second, Edwards picking up his bunt in front of the plate and throwing to Stanky at first for the out. Stanky gobbled up Moore's bounder near second base and threw him out. Dickson moving to third. Lombardi made a gloved hand stab of Musial's smash back of the box and threw him out. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Kurowski worked the count to 3 and 2 and walked for the third straight time. Slaughter walked on four straight pitches, Kurowski moving to second. Dusak sacrificed both runners along, Galan to Stanky who covered first. On a squeeze play, Kurowski scored from third when Higbe fielded Marion's bunt and tagged the Card shortstop out but could not make a play at the plate. Slaughter moved to third. Galan threw out Kluttz to end the top half of the inning, with the Cards ahead 5 to 1. One run, no hits, no errors, one left.

Seventh Inning Dodgers

Musial fumbled Stevens' grounder but recovered in time to toss to Dickson at first for the out. Marion threw out Furillo from deep short. Reese walked. Edwards bounded to Schoendinst who tossed to Marion at second forcing Reese. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Eighth Inning Cardinals

Official attendance 31,437 paid.

Dickson became the first St. Louis strikeout victim when he watched a curve ball break over the third strike. Schoendienst rapped a single into center on the first pitch. Moore's high drive into the left field corner bounced into the stands for a ground rule double, Schoendienst being held at third. Musial was purposely walked filling the bases. Kurowski hit Higbe's first pitch for a line single past first base to score Schoendienst and Moore with the Cards' seventh and eighth runs and sent Musial to third. Slaughter, after working the count to 3 and 2, walked to again load the bases. Melton, a righthander with a six and three record replaced Higbe on the mound to become the fifth Dodger pitcher. Harry Walker, a left handed batter, swung for Dusak. H. Walker fouled to Edwards behind the plate. Marion worked the count to 3 and 2 and grounded out to Reese. Stevens tripled to deep centerfield, scoring Galan. Furillo lined a single into centerfield, scoring Stevens and making the score 8 to 3 in the Cards' favor. Munger and Harry Brecheen began warming up in the Cardinal bull pen. Furillo raced to second on Dickson's wild pitch. Reese worked the count to 3 and 2 and walked. Brecheen, a lefthander with a 15-15 record, replaced Dickson on the mound for the Cards. Ralph Branca left the Brooklyn dugout for the bull pen. After fouling off three pitches, Edwards rammed a line single past third into left field to score Furillo and sent Reese to second. Lavagetto, a right hander, batted for Taylor and walked to fill the bases. After watching two called strikes, Stanky tok a ball and then was fooled by a fast pitch that cut to the left of the plate for a called strike. Schultz, another righthanded hitter, batted for Whitman. With the count 3 and 2 Brecheen hooked over a curved ball which Schultz missed for the third strike to end the game. Three runs, four hits, no errors, three left.

Missouri's Man-Made Cave May Some Day be a Part Of the Nation's Defenses

Limestone pillars, 25 feet in diameter support cave's roof. Overhead farmers peacefully plow their fields, providing natural camouflage in time of war.

Trucks can rumble in and out of these entrances to 90-acre limestone cave carved into a hillside near President Truman's home at Independence, Mo. Man standing in entrance, center, gives some idea of the vast size of the cave.

By Flora G. Orr
NEA Special Correspondent

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (NEA)—Deep in a limestone and shale hillside, only two miles from President Truman's home here is a gigantic man-made cave 90 acres in area. Today it is just limestone mine. Some day it might well be a part of an underground defense system against all out aerial warfare.

Both the army and the navy are aware of the military defense possibilities of such caves here and in Kansas. During the war they made frequent surveys of the area, but nothing was done. They still check them periodically.

The only war-time use made of the caves was by the war food administration, which leased one at Atchison, Kas., from the Kerford Brothers, whose father had carved out a hillside for its limestone before the turn of the century. The WFA used the caves' naturally cool interior for storing foodstuffs.

Both the cave here, which is operated by the Stewart Sand and Material Co., and another nearby owned by the Missouri Portland Cement Co., are turning out tons of limestone daily for the nation's home building program. But it would take only a few alterations to turn either into giant underground factories or air raid shelters.

Naturay Roof

Here trucks drive right through the cave's entrance to the working areas inside. The ceiling of hard limestone is 18 feet above the cave's floor and supporting this natural roof are pillars of limestone 25 feet in diameter, bigger than the average living room in an ordinary home. The pillars are about 35 feet apart.

It has taken miners 20 years to cut away the 90 acres of limestone already cleared, but currently about an acre a month is being removed. Eventually 200 acres will be cleared.

The cave's roof would stand considerable bombing pressure. The immediate ceiling is a four-foot thick layer of Bethany limestone. Above this is an average of 25 feet of shale and Winterset limestone, and above that 20 feet of top soil. Farmers quietly till their fields above as the trucks rumble about the cave's interior below.

Below the cave's flooring of a three-foot thick layer of shale is a two-foot ledge of hard limestone and then 100 more feet of shale, strong enough to support heavy machinery.

The cave is cool even on the hottest Missouri day, but at times it is damp and foggy. At such times you need fog lights on your car as you drive around the roadways inside, and it is safer to carry a flashlight or miner's lamp. Proper ventilation would clear out the damp and fog. The Missouri and Kansas limestone caves could accommodate thousands of people if converted to war-time air raid shelters, but because they are located so far from large population centers, it is probable that they would be converted into underground factories if the need ever arises.

By leveling the floors and covering them with concrete or other such material machine tools could be installed. Improvement of both lighting and ventilating would be no serious problem, and the huge drive-in entrances would make delivery of material and equipment easy. The peaceful farms overhead would provide natural camouflage.

Gave Him the Idea

Eli Whitney got the idea of a cotton gin by watching a fox clawing feathers from a pullet through the close-set slats of a chicken coop.

Navy 'Ark' Arrives Bearing Atomic Bomb Test Survivors

Radioactive Animals From Bikini to Provide Vital Data

Vital information on diagnosis and early treatment of radiation sickness is expected to be obtained from a cargo of 2,500 goats, pigs and rats, recently landed from the USS Burleson at Washington navy yard. The animals, survivors of the 5,000 used in the Bikini Atoll atom bomb tests, will be studied by scientists at the Naval Medical Research Center, Bethesda, Md., for possible effects of radioactivity on humans. Some of the animals developed an anemic condition after being exposed to the bomb's rays and were given blood transfusions to keep up their blood count, like "Goat No. 23," pictured at top right. Top left, another angora goat, victim of radioactivity, is hoisted from the Burleson's hold. Exposure to radioactive rays is thought to produce sterility, but the rat pictured above, left, apparently escaped this fate. She is shown with her two-day-old litter of young ones.

Many In One

In Washington, D. C., you can visit a half hundred foreign lands without going outside the city limits. Each foreign embassy, and the ground on which it stands, is a part of the nation it represents.

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what indigestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Nebraska and Kansas State Meet Saturday

Rest of Big Six Remain Idle in Conference Play

By Skipper Patrick

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 3—(AP)—Nebraska's Cornhuskers and the Kansas State Wildcats square off in their thirty-first football duel at Lincoln Saturday for the inside track in the Big Six conference's championship race.

While neither the Cornhuskers nor Wildcats have figured prominently as titular contenders in early-season guessing, there's every indication that the first intra conference tilt will prove a natural for an expected 34,000 fans.

Both teams showed flashes of brilliance in unsuccessful debuts last week. Nebraska was trimmed by Minnesota, 33-6, but produced one of the afternoon's outstanding triple threat backs in San Vacanit.

Kansas State, losing to tough Hardin-Simmons, marred its performance only by erratic execution of plays.

Rival coaches Bernie Masterson of Nebraska and Hobbs Adams of Kansas State are charging last week's operations to "experience"

"I'm sorry the boys had to take a lesson the hard way," Masterson said. "We'll know Saturday night how much they learned against Minnesota. Kansas State will be tough for us—plenty tough."

Adams expressed concern over "Nebraska's advantage in experience."

"We can match them in weight" Adams declared, "but not in experience. That could easily mean the difference in the teams."

Elsewhere around the Big Six, The Oklahoma Sooners, in good condition after their game with Army featured lateral passes in an intra-squad scrimmage for their game with Texas A. & M. at Norman Saturday.

Iowa State studied pictures of the game with Northwestern last week and will try to smooth out its attack against Iowa State Teachers at Ames Saturday.

Coach George Sauer of Kansas settled on a starting backfield combination for the Jayhawks' tussl with Wichita university at Lawrence. Ray Evans, Dick Bertuzzi, Lynne McNutt and Frank Pattee likely will get the jobs. McNutt replaces Bill Hogan who suffered a leg fracture against Denver.

Jim Kekeris, 295-pound tackle, was named Missouri captain for the Tigers' game with St. Louis university at St. Louis Friday night. Quarterback Jim Austin, injured against Ohio State, was able to take part in scrimmage.

Cotton Picking Contest is on

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 3.—(AP)—A record number of 100 entrants were in the fields near Blytheville this morning as the annual national cotton picking contest got off to a flying start, with $2,500 in cash prizes at stake.

Winners—to be judged on the basis of weight and grade of cleanliness of their cotton—are to be announced at 4:30 p. m.

Bill Adams, 27-year-old picker from Leachville, Ark., was out to defend his championship won last year against contestants from Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Michigan, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, California, Oklahoma, Texas and Mexico.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 3—(AP)—It isn't too surprising this football season to read blasts like that one about the "human slave market." . . . Seems from here the phrase "coaches who receive higher salaries than university presidents" may explain some of its vehemence . . . But it does seem strange in this Ivy League stronghold to read the suggestion that colleges which don't go all out in subsidizing might as well give up hope of drawing big gates because the competition from professional football will become too great . . . That theme is developed in this week's Princeton Alumni Weekly by football reporter Lee A. Gould. He says that the "Ivy group" agreement will "bring to an end the long and brilliant records of the eight colleges concerned as teams of national consequence." . . . Then he goes on to add that the same thing would take place eventually because the pros play more and better football and will soon attract the general public away from college games . . . He's right on one count: Anybody who wants to give up doesn't belong in football.

Sports Before Your Eyes

Jersey Jones, who once held the distinction of managing Bingo Joe Banovic, has teamed up with Lew Burston to pilot "the world's best middleweight," Charley Burley. . . Jones says that when Burley saw the recent Zale-Graziano fracas he merely asked: "How long do you think it will take us to get him?" . . . Meaning Zale, of course . . . Colorado grid fans are referring to that 76-0 affair at Austin, Tex., last week as "that gridiron grade-crossing accident." It warn't no accidents, friends; the Longhorns did it a -purpose . . . Princeton expects to have a terrific one-two dash for its track team, Fred Kelsey, former I. C. 4-A spring champ, and Paul Cowie, who also can beat ten seconds for the 120. If middle-distance star Ed Burrowes can get rid of about 25 extra pounds he brought back from the Army, the Tiger runners should be real good.

Sportsman's Park Has Been Sold

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3—(AP)—Sportsman's park, home of the St. Louis Browns and Cardinals, and possibly site of the opening game of the world series, has been purchased by the Browns from the Dodier Realty company, it was announced last night.

The realty company has operated the park for the estate of the late Philip de Catesby Ball, one-time owner of both the Browns and the park. Richard C. Muckerman, ice and fuel dealer, is now president of the Browns and the majority stock holder.

The amount involved in the transaction was not disclosed, but the value of the baseball plant has been estimated at $1,000,000 or more. Both Browns and Cardinals have been using it on a rental basis.

Baby, She Knows the Answers

By NEA Service

Are you bothered by people who back you into a corner and shove the latest pictures of junior and/or sis in your face while you're defenseless?

Clip this out, brother, for Jo-Ann Leib has come to your rescue and put a weapon in your hands.

That's Jo-Ann over at the right, with the telephone. The reason she holds the receiver that way is because she has so much to say she hasn't time to listen.

"Hello," says Jo-Ann, just as clear!

She has 13 other words in her vocabulary, and is quite a character around the household of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Leib of Queens, L. I., where Jo-Ann will be one year old Oct. 11.

Besides what she's doing for the camera in the pictures below, Jo-Ann can imitate the baby next door and a number of other things. She is getting paid for modeling, already.

Show these to your friend and ask him if his junior has his first $5 pay check so soon. How's that? Ooops, sorry; didn't know you had some pictures of your own.

Jo-Ann starts out with a good healthy slug of milk . . .

. . . and then sets outt on a solo flights with hair brush.

What's next? No helping in the audience, please . . .

Oh, yes. "Bowers," she says. Flowers, that is.

A contributive lunch was served at the noon hour to thirty-four members and visitors. Among the visitors were Mrs. J. L. Sheets, of Clifton Forge, Va., and Mrs. Ed Cronk and daughter, Mary Ed, of Minneapolis, Minn.

The afternoon business session was in charge of the president, Mrs. J. O. Coffelt. Mrs. Earl Gregory led the singing.

A discussion concerning a clinic to be held at the school for children who wish to be immunized for small pox and diphtheria, was led by Mrs. Forrest Reid.

A health report was given by Mrs. Charlie Tevis.

The requirement of the year's work to be met by the club members was summarized by Mrs. Harold Schauz.

After a solo sung by Mrs. Davis Robb accompanied by Mrs. A. P. Reid, Jr., the club song was then sung by the group.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Junior Rife.

The Doctor Says

Even Foods Can Be Basis of Allergies

By William A. O'Brien, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Food sensitive patients usually complain of flatulence, bloating and passage of an excessive amount of gas from the bowel after eating food to which they are sensitive.

According to Walter C. Alvarez, M. D., Rochester, Minn., not everyone who says he cannot eat a certain food is hypersensitive to it, as some people will not eat something because they do not like its appearance, odor or taste. Many women say they cannot eat eggs, but still they do not find any difficulty eating foods in which eggs were used. This is not a true allergy, as it represents a problem in training and self-discipline.

It is possible to skin test a patient and learn the foods which may be causing his difficulty, but it must be remembered that a skin test may be one thing and difficulty with food another. Real proof that a certain food is causing stomach and intestinal difficulty is the complete relief of symptoms when the food is not eaten.

Some Foods Are Obvious

When anyone eats an unusual food like shellfish and has difficulty afterward, the relationship is obvious, but many food sensitive people are upset by ordinary articles in their diet and usually do not suspect the cause.

Dr. Alvarez reports a study of foods which most commonly cause distress. Onions, milk, cream, ice cream, raw apples, cooked cabbage, chocolate, radishes, tomatoes, cucumbers and eggs lead the list. (Practically every one of the common foods was included by some patients.) Some foods are blamed because there is a tendency for them to be belched up and retasted after eating and many patients feel that such foods caused them distress when other factors may be responsible.

When food distress occurs every time after eating certain foods, it is a good practice to go on a fast for five days, drinking only water and not eating any food. If symptoms continue, it is not likely that they are caused by foods. This test is not recommended for underweights or those who have been voluntarily restricting their foods for some time. On the third day the patient should start to eat a simple fare to which new foods are added one at a time, or better still, consult a physician and follow a regular elimination diet plan.

Distress in Other Ways

Food allergy is suspected in persons who are allergic to other things (pollen, animal dander and house dust) and have stomach upsets after eating certain foods; the condition is also suspected in members of the family of allergic patients even though they may not have other forms of allergy.

Food can distress allergic persons in other ways than in the stomach or intestine. Some cause a stuffy runny nose and some produce hives (strawbrries, chocolate, etc.) Foods are also reported as a cause of migraine headaches, but the association is difficult to prove.

Rev. L. A. Swan to Attend Convention

Leaving Friday for Cleveland, Ohio, the Rev. L. A. Swan, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, will attend the fifteenth biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America. The Rev. Swan is one three clerical delegates elected at the annual session of the Synod of Kansas and Adjacent States held at Chapman, Kas., last April.

Some items on the agenda of the meeting will be the proposal to raise $5,000,000 for Lutheran colleges and universities during the next biennium; provision for more generous pensions to pastors and widows; consideration of a proposed new common hymnal for Lutheran Bodies of America, and special recognition of chaplains who served in World War II; also the completion of a program to raise $10,000,000 for rehabilitation of Lutheran churches in Europe, of which $4,000,000 has already been received.

Vegetables And Fruit In Lockers

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 3—(AP)—With little meat available, a large packing firm here is renting its locker rooms for storage of peaches, corn, beans and applesauce.

E. W. Phelps, general manager of Swift & Co., showed three members of the Republican congressional food supply committee through the plant Wednesday and they saw more vegetables than meat.

"Back east the people still seem to have a genera idea that the packing plants are bulging with meat," said Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of Ohio, committee chairman, explaining that the group wanted to see for itself before opening hearing here tomorrow on the food situation.

Phelps said 56 percent of the plant's storage space was occupied, and 77 percent of that is for commercial storage, solicited to keep the locker rooms operating.

Jenkins, accompanied by Rep. Marion T. Bennett, Springfield, Mo., and Rep. William C. Cole, St. Joseph, saw 50 carcasses in the fresh cooling room. That represented a two-day kill, Phelps explained. A normal run would be 1,400 to 1,600 head a day, the manager said.

There were about 200 hogs hanging in the cooling rooms, a week's accumulation. Phelps said the normal capacity was 18,000 hogs a week.

Gaynor Maddox, NEA Food Editor, Says

No Meat? Try These For Proteins

Milk and lots of it for growing children. Dried beans and peas, whole-grain breads and cereals, and nuts provide needed protein.

Even if your butcher shop is barren of steaks, chops and roasts —and every other kind of meat— don't get panicky.

You can live—very well, too—without any meat at all.

But you cannot live without protein. And there are many other protein foods beside meat in your market today.

These non-meat proteins are not substitutes for meat. They are meat's equal as protein sources. To stay well and happy, eat liberally of them.

Milk and cheese are first rate sources of protein. Use them even more during the meat shortage.

For children between one and three years, a quart of milk a day supplies three-quarters of the protein needs. For those up to 13 years, a quart supplies at least half.

The Children's Bureau says all kinds of cheese can be digested by children despite old-fashioned theories.

With no meat, eat more eggs than you have before.

Chicken, duck, turkey, goose or wild game are good.

Eat at least two servings a day of the non-meat protein foods. All these foods are good sources of protein as well as minerals and vitamins: poultry, fish, eggs, dried beans, peas and nuts. The Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics says you must eat two servings a day from this group AS WELL AS your daily supply of the other necessary foods, such as citrus fruit, dairy products, vegetables.

The average man needs more protein a day than the average woman. So give the men an extra serving of fish, eggs or fowl, more whole-grain bread, and a second glass of milk.

Boys and girls around 16 need more protein foods than anyone else. That is their growing period. Protein foods are essential to growth.

Doctors say children can digest cheese easily.

No matter how much fowl, fish or eggs you serve as your main dish, get some extra protein food into your other dishes during the meat famine. Use nuts in bread, chopped over puddings, or eat salted as an in-between snack. Use cheese in spaghetti and noodle dishes, grated over casseroles, in soups, sliced or melted in sandwiches. Be liberal with peanut butter. Cook with milk. Combine dried beans and lentils with left-over sauces into baked dishes. Serve whole wheat bread frequently. Add oatmeal and other whole grain cereals to soups and sauces.

No one can live without proteins. No one has to. But we can live without meat even though we don't want to.

Cod steaks pinch hit for missing sirloins and chops.

Muffin Magic

Plump, tender muffins, light as an October cloud, are "stand-outs" at any meal. Beginners as well as experts can make these top-quality muffins if they know what the characteristics of good muffins are and how they got that way.

Good muffins not only taste good, but look good, too. Muffins that show the master touch are an even golden brown, and are large in size for the amount of batter used. They have a gently rounded top with no peaks or lopsided knobs. The surface of plainer muffins is rather rough or pebbly, rather than smooth. The inside crumbs shows rounded holes, but none of the long ones often called tunnels. Good muffins are light for their size, or, as someone has said, they surprise us that anything so plump could weigh so little. The woman who can make such prize-winning muffins knows that such success is no accident, because the magic is in her touch as she stirs.

The secret of making good muffins lies mainly in just the right amount of mixing. The general rule for making muffins is to sift all dry ingredients together, combine all liquid ingredients, and then to add the liquid to the flour mixture all at once. At this point, it is important to stir quickly and lightly until the flour is just dampened. The batter is still quite lumpy at this stage. Mixing even a few strokes beyond this point may cause tunnels, peaks or knobs, and small volume. For ease in combining, some cooks make a little well in the flour mixture, pour the liquid into it, and stir lightly from the outside. The batter should then be laced into greased muffin pans at once, filling them half full. Easy does it—muffins suffer more than other baked products from overmixing and overhandling.

Basic Muffin Recipe

2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoonse sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat egg and add milk and shortening. Add egg mixture to floor mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Fill greased muffin pans half full. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 20 minutes.

Yield: 12 2¼ inch muffins.

When extra ingredients are added to a basic muffin recipe, there may be danger of overstirring when they are folded into the batter. To avoid this possibility, dry ingdedients such as chopped nuts, raisins, or grated cheese may be folded into the flour mixture before the liquid is added. Wet ingredients, such as crushed pineapple or honey, may be added to the liquid before combining the liquid and flour mixture.

Once a basic recipe is mastered, it is fun to play variations on it. This basic muffin recipe submits graciously to quite a bit of delightful tampering with happy eating results.

Apple Muffins: To Basic Muffin Recipe, add ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, a tablespoons shortening, and 1 cup finely chopped apples.

Cheese Muffins: To Basic Muffin Recipe, add ¾ cup grated sharp cheese, ¼ cup milk, and 1 tablespoon shortening.

Nut Muffins: To Basic Muffin Recipe, add ½ cup chopped nuts. Put nut meat on top of each muffin before baking.

Pineapple Muffins: To Basic Muffin Recipe, use 1 cup crushed pineapple, with juice, insteady of 1 cup milk.

Some 'Kid'!

Reminiscent of Jackie Coogan in his famous screen role as "The Kid" is 2-year-old Valdemar Gauko, Polish war orphan. He's pictured on arrival in New York City under sponsorship of U. S. Committee for the Care of European Children.

Gingerbread cup cakes or cake squares are gay as a masquerade when iced with an orange-tinted frosting. Though frostings are sweet, and sweet usually means sugar, this frosting passes by the sugar bowl without even a glance in its direction. To make this sugar-shy frosting, beat two egg whites until frothy, add a pinch of salt and continue beating until the whites are stiff but not dry. Add to 1 cup of light corn sirup a bit of orange cake coloring and a teaspoon of orange flavoring extract, and add all gradually to the beaten egg whites, beating until the frosting stands in peaks. This recipe makes enough frosting for 2 8-inch square layers or about 20 cup cakes. Warning: the frosting takes a lot of heating, and is most easily made when an electric mixer is on hand, though it can also be made by hand.

The popular team of apple pie and cheese finds an echo in Biscuit Pinwheels. Add ½ to 1 cup grated nippy cheese to the flour-shortening mixture of a good biscuit recipe. When the dough is rolled, spread it with chopped apples seasoned to taste with sugar and a bit of cinnamon or nutmeg. Roll up like a jelly-roll, cut in 1-inch slices, and bake cut side down in greased muffin pans.

Sarah Churchill Making Movie in Rome

SARAH CHURCHILL— 36 4 col

By John McKnight
(For Hal Boyle)

ROME, Oct. 2—(AP)—"So I say to him, 'I love you dearly'."

The willowy girl in the long blue velvet dress put the tips of her slender fingers together and laughed. When she laughed, her green eyes laughed too.

"And what does he answer? I don't know. Because he answers me in Italian."

The girl was Sarah Churchill, 30-year-old daughter of Britain's wartime prime minister, a Waaf for five years and now back at her chosen career as an actress.

She was talking about the movie she is making in Rome—"Daniele Cortis," based on the 19th century novel by Antonio Focazzaro—in which she plays the feminine lead opposite the Italian stage star Vittorio Cassman.

Speaks No Italian

Miss Churchill speaks no Italian. Gassman speaks no English. On the set, she delivers her lines in precise, carefully enunciated English; he speaks his in Italian. Since there will be both Italian and English versions of the flicker, Miss Churchill's voice will be dubbed in the former, Gassman's and the rest of the cast in the latter. It is easy to see that the situation makes for complications.

And how did the English girl happen to be in Italy for this picture with an otherwise all-Italian cast?

Director Mario Soldati — who doubles on the set as interpreter for his star—answered:

"I tested Italian actresses for this part. None would do. This part is a complicated, twisted, tortured woman, a strong woman, a tragic woman. We don't have a woman like that in Italy—not actresses, anyway. Oh, one or two, maybe on the stage, but if they have the ability they don't have the face.

Picked Miss Churchill

"One day I dropped in at an Italian producer's place and saw some tests. There was one girl—she was badly photographed—but I said, 'That's the one' I didn't know who she was. She turned out to be Miss Churchill.

"They will say, of course, that I picked her because she is Winston Churchill's daughter, because her name will help the picture. But it would have been the same if she had been Sarah Smith."

Miss Churchill says she does like the part. (It is that of Elena Baroness of Santa Giulia, cousin and childhood sweetheart of politician statesman Daniele Cortis. The two meet again after 10 years' separation when both have married others. Their struggle against renascent passion and her final renunciation so Cortis may pursue his political destinies unhindered make the plot of the book.)

No Experience

"I have not had much movie work—most of my experience has been on the stage," she says. "My best parts were in "Spring Meeting" and "He Found a Star," both made in the early days of the war. But they weren't really very good. This is the best role have had."

Miss Churchill, who served in the British forces from 1941 until December, 1945, and accompanied her father to Yalta and Teheran, has precise, patrician features and heavy, dusky blonde hair. In pictures she looks like Vivian Leigh. In the flesh she strikingly resembles her tall, handsome mother. She said she expected to be in Italy about three months and expects to play a smaller part in another picture.

Shoulder pads built into a sheer net bodice will give a new "lift" to fall clothes. Available in black or white, they eliminate pinning or sewing pads into each dress, wash easily and are quick to dry.

Peanut butter and bacon make a hearty and satisfying flavor combination for sandwiches in lunch boxes going to work or school. Chop about 3 slices of bacon and fry until crisp. Blend the bacon with about ¼ cup each of peanut butter and salad dressing and store in the refrigerator until needed.

Quaker Oats The World's Best-Tasting Breakfast Food

THE GREATEST BAKING POWDER IMPROVEMENT IN 50 YEARS!

Improved WITH... FOOD CALCIUM

Betters Bakings 3 Ways!

1. BAKINGS LOOK BETTER ... THE FOOD CALCIUM in the new KC permits more even distribution of the fine, active ingredients throughout the baking powder. This promotes more uniform action—gives bakings the light, smooth texture and inviting rich appearance everyone enjoys.

2. BETTER TASTE ... New KC assures full flavor of other ingredients—in your baked goods you get no soda taste from KC.

3. BETTER FOR YOU, TOO ... KC makes everything you bake with it a valuable source of FOOD CALCIUM—adding 2 to 5 times more FOOD CALCIUM than the fresh milk used in a baking, depending on the recipe. Thus KC joins milk as a fine source of this vital food element.

Clarksburg

Mrs. Maude Albin

Rev. Ivan Dameron went to Huntsville, Friday to officiate at the funeral of an old friend of his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Doe Howe had as their guests Wednesday night Mr. and Mrs. Walter Orr and daughter Thalia, of Marshall. Mrs. Orr is an aunt of Mrs. Howe.

The W.M.U. held its state mission program September 20, at the church annex, having an all-day session. A covered dish luncheon was served at the noon hour.

The reunion of students of Clarksburg Baptist college which was held at the high school building, Sunday was a decided success. One of the largest crowds ever to assemble here was present. Many speakers were presented during the afternoon. Among those were:

J. R. Procter of California, Mo., master of ceremonies; W. F. Bowers, welcome address; Will Simpson, Spokane, Wash.; Dr. Dorsey Hooper, Woolridge, Mo.; Stewart Sturges, Kansas City, Mo., and also Rev. James Dillard, of Nashville, Tenn., who was formerly the president of the Clarksburg college. Another speaker was Will Nelson, Columbia, a graduate of the Hooper Institute. Prayers were offered by Rev. J. E. Dillard and Rev. Ivan Dameron. The program closed with the song, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." Among those out-of-town guests present were: Dr. J. E. Dillard, Nashville, Tenn.; Will Simpson, Spokane, Wash.; Miss Sadie Winebrunner, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. A. D. Bond, Tulsa, Okla.; Stewart Sturgis, Mrs. Effie McDowell, Lander McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cain, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey, Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hoskins, Jefferson City; Dr. Arnold Meredith, Prairie Home, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Donley, Otterville, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Aetna Allie, Warrensburg, Mo.; Jerry Cantlon, Liberty, Mo.; Mrs. Belle White, Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Dunnaway, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hickam, Luther Swarner, Boonville, Will Nelson and son Will L. Nelson, Columbia, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Shirley, Bunceton, Mo.; Mrs. C. E. Amos, San Antonio, Tex.; Mrs. Roscoe Lumpkin, Amarillo, Tex.; Mrs. Albert Rodenburg, Warrensburg; Mrs. Mayme Selken, Smithton; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kay and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Kay of California, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sturges, Sarkoxie; Mrs. Nola Harlan, Centertown, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Winebrunner, Mr. and Mrs. Ellard McDaniel, Dr. Dorsey Hooper, Woolridge, Mo., Mrs. Ethal Rae, Kansas City, Mrs. Mary Estes, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hill, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Mrs. Ethel Rea, of Kansas City, was a guest of her mother, Mrs. Alpha Maxey, the past week, and attended the homecoming reunion of Clarksburg college.

Mrs. Mae Winebrunner left Tuesday for Denver, Colo., to visit her sister, Mrs. Amack. She accompanied her son, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Eckles and two daughters, to Denver, on their way home to Pasadena, Calif.

Truman Ruppart recently returned home from the hospital in St. Louis.

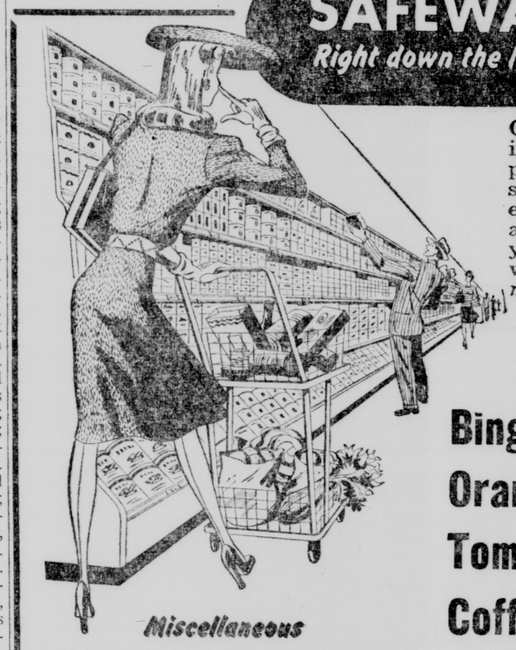

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Battles, Jr., had as their guests to help them celebrate their third wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hentges and son, John and daughter Cathleen, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hentges, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hentges and son, Mrs. Battles' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pringle, and Mr. and Mrs. Al Pringle, all of Centertown and Jefferson City communities.

Jack-o'-Lantern Cookies add to the gaiety of Hallowe'en. To make them, roll a good sugar cookie dough to the desired thickness, and cut with a 3-inch cookie cutter. In half of the rounds, cut triangles for eyes and nose, and crescents for the mouths. On the other half of the rounds, place a teaspoon of mincemeat. Cover with rounds in which faces have been cut, press edges together with a fork, and bake. These cookies served with apple cider or mugs of hot cocoa will make youthful eyes beam.

Perfect accompaniments for stacks of steaming griddle cakes on a cool October morning are rings of fried apples with sausages pulled through the hole where the core was.

The Daily Washington Merry-go-Round

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 — It will probably be denied, but Vice Adm. William H. P. Blandy and several of his top associates are boiling mad at the cancellation of the the third atomic bomb test.

This was the test which the scientists predicted would really show the world the true power of the atom bomb, and which would have shown modern navies to be completely obsolete.

Unfortunately the reports of the colossal damage done by the first and second bombs were only made public piecemeal, days after the explosion took place, so that the public never got a clear picture of the fantastic destruction caused by the bomb.

Admiral Blandy and his aides have now made a confidential report which shows that more than half the men who would have been aboard the Bikini fleet would have been instantly killed; while more than 60 per cent of the survivors would have been permanently disabled or died of wounds.

Test No. 3—Underwater—would have been even more horrible. That is why men like Blandy who have been doing everything possible to educate the public to the truth about atomic energy are now pretty well disgusted. One example of the mistaken conclusions which the public got as a result of bombs No. 1 and 2 is the case of "Pig 311."

"Pig 311" is the porker supposed to have been placed aboard ship near the center of the explosion to demonstrate the effectiveness of bomb radiation on humans. After the second test it was reported that "Pig 311" had been hurled into the water by the explosion, swam around 36 hours and managed to survive with no sign of illness.

Scientists who checked this story, however, discovered that "Pig 311" had never been near the explosion and the incident had not occurred.

It never leaked out but when Admiral Blandy was about to hold a press conference aboard the USS Burleson which brought the surviving animals of the Bikini test back to Washington, an aide suggested that Blandy pose with "Pig 311" as evidence that the porker survived the terrors of the A-bomb.

"I will not be a party to any such hoax," replied Blandy, angrily. "We all know that 'Pig 311' never left this boat."

In the press conference which followed, "Pig 311" was not mentioned.

Real fact is that Blandy and his aides wish their superiors shared their realization of the A-bomb's devastating power.

Note — The bombs used at Bikini are mere beanbags alongside future bombs capable of destroying a hundred-square-mile area.

McKellar's Budget Balancing

Senator Kenneth McKellar's conference with President Truman on flood control spending wasn't as congenial—or as fruitful—as the gentleman from Tennessee intimated to the press.

Truman promised to "review" his executive order, under the war powers act, by which he slashed the $500,000,000 appropriation for rivers and harbors and flood control by two-thirds. This "promise" was largely a face-saver for McKellar, so he would not have to tell the newsmen that he had been turned down cold in his efforts to get the order rescinded.

Actually, he was turned down cold. Furthermore, he caught an indirect lecture from the president for preaching economy for others while raiding the treasury himself.

Plainly irritated by demands from the Tennessee senator and several members of congress who accompanied him that the anti-pork-barrel order be rescinded, Truman said:

"Several of you have been after me at one time or another to balance the budget, but when I begin doing it—as in this case — you step on my toes."

As an after thought, Truman added that those who were most vocal about balancing the budget usually wanted it balanced in some other state.

McKellar's Blushes

Obviously the president had in mind a recent speech in which McKellar rapped him for the order blocking the rivers-and-harbors pork grab and challenged his right to issue the order.

The Tennesseean flushed as he listened to this lecture and looked for a moment as if he had been beaned with a croquet mallet. When he got his tongue into gear again, he sputtered something about being "heartily in accord" with balancing the budget.

He added, however, that the rivers-and-harbors project should not be docked more than its proportionate share.

Truman made no promises about voiding his order, except to say that he would be glad to "review" it. He repeated that it was necessary to balance the budget, partly because of its effect in maintaining the high prestige the United States enjoys among other nations.

If the job had to be done at the expense of rivers and harbors, he was prepared to do it, he said, despite th bricks that might be thrown at him.

"The president usually has to take the bricks," he concluded, "and I can take them."

Note — The White House eventually may make some slight concessions on certain reclamation projects whic hthe budget bureau now admits were cut too sharply, but that's all.

"General" Sarnoff

When David Sarnoff, head of the Radio Corporation of America, was presented at the recent meeting of the new national commission to advise the state department on cultural activities, newsmen were uncertain whether to refer to him as general or plain mister. He appeared in civilian clothes, having been in and out of the army several times.

The problem was settled by an unidentified man who decided that Sarnoff, although a reserve officer, is still "mister."

"Here's the story I've heard Sarnoff tell on himself," he said. "In December of 1944, the day after he went off active duty, Sarnoff left his office in Radio City, New York, to go downtown. When he reached the street, he stood in a cold rain trying to hail a taxi.

"Finally, an empty cab drew up and Sarnoff wa sabout to get in when out of nowhere a young army lieutenant jumped into the cab ahead of him and slammed the door. Sarnoff, forgetting he was out of uniform, was preparing to let the lieutenant know what he thought when the cab driver said, 'Sorry, Buddy, but with me a serviceman gets the call over a civilian any time.' The cab drew off.

"And Sarnoff says that since then he has never forgotten he can no longer 'Pull his rank,' even though he was a general."

DEVIL'S LAUGHTER

By Alice M. Laverick — Copyright, 1946, NEA SERVICE, INC.

XXIX

THERE was a long silence in the room, while I sat staring unseeingly at the books before me along the walls. Even after the two men had left the living room, I did not move until Ellen came to find me to tell me dinner was ready.

Ellen said I looked tired and pale to her and she was glad it was near time for my vacation. She would see to it that I took plenty of rest, she told me.

And it was one day that same week that Father Gene spoke his mind to me again, when he paused at my desk at Saint Gregory's.

"I hope you don't intend to spend your vacation at Innisfail, Cecelia," he said severely. "You look washed out to me and your eyes are too big for your face. Go along to the beach for yourself and let the good sea breezes blow some of this place out of your system."

And this time I heeded his advice.

So, for the first time since I had known Innisfail, I went to the North Shore to spend my vacation at a summer hotel instead of staying with Ellen.

I spent hours sitting watching the waves dash high against the big rocks along the shore, and swam a little, but not much. I played bridge afternoons with three ancient Bostonians, who considered themselves extremely democratic in allowing a mere nurse to sit at their table and listen to their polite insults to each other.

* * *

WHEN I left, I had gained two pounds, had acquired a little muddy sunburn I tried to convince myself was a tan, and had a nodding acquaintance with the half dozen or so men guests of which the hotel boasted. Indeed, I might as well have been of the same vintage as my three companions from Boston. I smiled a bit sheepishly to myself on the way home at the thought of how disappointed Father Gene was going to be when I told him that moonlit nights and the sound of waves and the sentimental dance music at the hotel had had no effect at all. Father Gene would be resigned now to the fact that I was hopeless.

And then, on my arrival at the hospital, I heard the astounding news that Innisfail had been burned to the ground and that Miss Charlotte was a patient there at Saint Gregory's. And, at once, all other considerations fell away. As soon as I could arrange it, I went up to the maternity floor, where they had taken her for lack of room elsewhere.

Standing by her bed, gazing down on the still lovely face, I had the strange sensation that the past ten years were a dream, that here before me was the Miss Charlotte I had known that first summer—that, indeed, it still was that summer.

So vivid was this sensation that when I raised my head to see Doctor Franklin beside me, for a brief moment I did not recognize him. Then the feeling passed and I was aware of my surroundings once more and of what it really meant to have Miss Charlotte there and to be waiting for her to open her eyes. Waiting to see what effect the double shock would have on her poor mind that had been so long clouded.

* * *

I COULD hardly bear the suspense. I stood there, my hands clenched at my sides, and prayed as I had never done before, while Doctor Franklin gravely took Charlotte's pulse and watched her closely.

I was vaguely aware that the door had opened, that others had come into the room. I did not even turn my head to see who they were, though I knew that the doctor had motioned for silence.

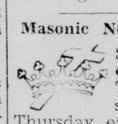

And then I forgot everything except that Charlotte's eyes were opening. They were opening and they were not blank. Puzzled and faintly frightened, but not blank—not blank. And still I could not move. Had she really come out of the dark forest in which she had been wandering? And would she stay—would she stay?

I saw Charlotte turn her head on her pillow to see who was in the room. It was then that I lifted my eyes and found that Mark and Ellen were there. And then my heart quickened its beat, for just behind them stood Colin.

Colin Fitzgerald, even more bronzed than I remembered, more broad-shouldered, with a touch of gray at his temples and a few faint lines around his dark eyes, gazing at Charlotte and, like myself, hardly daring to believe what he saw.

Diaper Crisis Delays Sailing Of Falcon

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3—(AP)— A diaper crisi. delayed sailing of the SS Marine Falcon, carrying 500 volunteer Japanese repatriates to their homeland Wednesday.

It was discovered that all the other passenger luggage had been piled on top of the vital infant equipment in the hold.

It would take a day to find them and restow the luggage. Neither the babies nor the ship could wait.

A wholesaler finally provided six bolts of cotton as a fill-in.

There are 15 babies on board and another 12 are expected before the vessel reaches Japan.

Industry's Mr. Six-by-Six: No. 4

Kaiser is a Minority Stock Holder in Most of the Kaiser Enterprises------But He's Tops In THE H.J. Kaiser Co.

Kaiser and son pore over complex figures of a complex organization at congressional hearing. This is son Edgar, who like brother Henry J., Jr., holds a one-fourth share in the parent Kaiser holding company.

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth of five informative dispatches in which NEA Washington correspondent takes you behind the congressional probe of Kaiser to show you Kaiser as a political issue, his partners and how they grew, his post-war gambles with war plants, his satellites, and his rows with the government.)

By PETER EDSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (NEA) — The corporate structure of the Kaiser empire is pretty complicated, but it reveals that Henry J. Kaiser himself is a minority stockholder in most of the enterprises with which his name is connected.

Kaiser, himself, summarizes operations during the war as $46,000,000 profits and $59,000,000 losses, with net loss as $13,000,000.

The top holding company in the set-up is the Henry J. Kaiser Co., 100 per cent owned by members of Kaiser's immediate family.

Henry J. senior owns 50 per cent, and his two sons Edgar F. and Henry J., Jr., own 25 per cent each.

Under the Henry J. Kaiser Co. are two other holding companies, Kaiser Engineers and the Kaiser Company.

Kaiser Engineers is a management and design company which, capitalizing on Kaiser construction experiences of the past 20 years, will conservatively undertake to build anything for anybody anywhere. It is 40 per cent owned by the Henry J. Kaiser Co., meaning the Kaiser family, and 60 per cent owned by other executives in his organization.

The Kaiser-Co. is 46 per cent owned by the Kaiser family. The Kaiser Co. owns Permanente Metals, which is Kaiser's magnesium producing company. 54 per cent of the Permanente stock is held outside the Kaiser family, the remainder being equally owned by the Henry J. Kaiser Co. and the Kaiser Co.

During the war, Permanente Metals operated the Richmond Shipbuilding Corp., which operated Richmond Yards One and Two. They built 631 Liberty and Victory ships, and the profits paid off Permanente Metals debt to the government for the magnesium plant. Permanente Metals lost $2,000,000 in 1943, lost $5,000,000 in 1944, but is now said to be doing better through complete redesign of the plant. Permanente losses are now put at $50,000 a month, or approximately half a million a year.

Now you come to five other Kaiser companies in which the Kaiser holding companies own shares varying from a minority interest to 100 per cent.

Consolidated Builders, in which the Henry J. Kaiser Co. and the Kaiser Co. each owns 11 per cent, in turn owns the Oregon Shipbuilding Corp. at Portland. It built 463 ships during the war.

Kaiser Fleetwings, the aircraft company formerly known as Kaiser Cargo, also operated Richmond Yard No. 4 during the war. It built 51 smaller vessels. Kaiser ownership in the Fleetwings company is held 45 per cent by the Henry J. Kaiser Co., 15 per cent each by Kaiser Engineers and the Kaiser Co.

The sign could fool you. This one, which hung outside the Vancouver, Wash., shipyard and drew thousands of workers like the ones standing under it, designates a 100 per cent Kaiser enterprise. Other signs say the same thing, but H. J. is just a minority stockholder in most.

Kaiser Company, Inc., is 100 per cent wholly owned by the Henry J. Kaiser Co., meaning the Kaiser family. During the war Kaiser Inc., operated Richmond Yard No. 3, Vancouver and Swan Island. Profits of these companies went to pay off Kaiser's loan from RFC for construction of Fontana Steel.

Richmond No. 3 built 35 troop transports. Vancouver built 133 ships, including the 50 baby flattops that Kaiser designed and sold to the navy after such a spectacular runaround. Swan Island built 147 tankers.

Temporary Repair Division, subsidiary of the Kaiser Co., operated master ship repair contracts for navy and Maritime Commission, repairing hulls torpedoed and battle damaged in the Pacific war. They did $38,000,000 worth of repair work.

Columbia Construction Company, owned 11 per cent by the Henry J. Kaiser and Kaiser companies, had a dry dock contract during the war.

Minority holdings of the above six Kaiser-operated companies are held by nearly a dozen contracting and construction companies with whom Kaiser has been associated during the past 20 years. Included are the J. F. Shea Co., Inc., Utah Construction Co., Walsh Construction Co., Morrison-Knudsen Co., Pacific Bridge Co., Mac Donald and Kahn, Inc., W. A. Bechtel Co., Bechtel-McCone Corp., General Construction Co., Todd Shipyards and Howard Hughes. All but the last two were in the old Six Companies set-up. These associates own from three to 25 per cent stock in the various Kaiser-operated companies. Some own stock in as many as four of the enterprises.

With Todd, Kaiser has now severed relations. Also, Kaiser broke off with Howard Hughes after getting an $18,000,000 contract from the government to build supercargo planes. The first of the Hughes planes is now awaiting test on the west coast.

During the war, Kaiser also an interest in California Shipbuilding, Houston Shipbuilding, Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding, South Portland Shipbuilding and Todd-Bath Iron works. In none of these did Kaiser have an operating hand, and in all he has now sold his stock, disposing of the last in April 1945.

In two other companies which are not Kaiser managed, Kaiser does hold an interest. These are an eight per cent holding in the Joshua Hendy Iron works, and 40 per cent holdings in Associated Contractors, which operated the Walsh-Kaiser Co. shipyards during the war.

Fontana Steel, biggest enterprise in the portfolio, is held 50 per cent by Kaiser Fleetwings, 50 per cent by Kaiser Co., Inc. The latter is 100 per cent owned by the Kaiser family. The former 75 per cent by Kaiser holding companies, the rest by Morrison-Knudsen and J. F. Shea.

Before the Merchant Marine Committee, Kaiser at one time testified that he had paid off half the cost of the $100,000,000 steel mill. At another time, he testified he had paid off $27,000,000. In his "Book of Facts," the figure was $9,000,000 plus $9,000,000 interest.

Reconstruction Finance Corp. says the amount paid on the $114,000,000 Fontana loans is approximately $18,000,000 principal plus $9,000,000 interest, a total of $27,000,000. The balance due is approximately $96,000,000.

Wallace In A Reply To Baruch

President States Dispute Up To The Two In The Late Controversy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace declared today that Bernard M. Baruch—not Wallace—was "increasing public confusion" on the critical issue of the atomic bomb.

The former secretary of commerce issued a statement replying to Baruch's assertion that he had misinterpreted the stand of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, which Baruch heads. Wallace said Baruch had not dealt with the central issue of the controversy.

"Neither in his memorandum of September 24 to the President nor his personal blast at me," Wallace said, "do I find any indication that the U. S. representative has come to grips with the serious point of disagreement on which the work of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission has been deadlocked for some time, or with the fact that the nations of the world are even now engaged in a frantic atomic bomb race."

The Wallace statement was given reporters at the National Press club. The former secretary did not make himself available for questioning.

No Comment By Truman

It came after President Truman declined, at a morning news conference, to comment on the dispute. Mr. Truman said it was a matter between Wallace and Baruch.

Wallace termed it "regretable" that Baruch chose this occasion to "reaffirm the stubborn and inflexible position he has taken at a time when negotiations are in a critical phase."

The danger of failure in the negotiations, Wallace said, lies in Baruch's statement that "the United States delegation cannot consider modifications in those fundamental principles of its plan which, in our judgment, must be maintained to meet the mandate given the commission by the United Nations General Assembly last January."

Defends Policy Letter

Wallace asserted that it is "precisely Mr. Baruch's 'judgment' as to what 'must be maintained' that has created the impasse."

In defending his foreign policy letter of July 23 to President Truman, to which Baruch took exception, Wallace said it was also "regretable" that the New Yorker was "unable to distinguish the fundamental, critical issues from their purely procedurial aspects."

In view of what Wallace described as Baruch's pre-occupation with this "less important aspect of the commission's task," he said it seemed an appropriate occasion to ask:

"When are you going to get down to business, Mr. Baruch?"

Wallace said that the "present impasse" in the negotiations of the commission arises from two basic points of disagreement.

"The first, and most important one," he said, "relates to the question of whether the United States should continue its production and stockpiling of atomic bombs during the negotiations of the treaty and the transition to full international control."

The second, he went on, relates to the Russian refusal to agree to an international system of inspection to control atomic energy production.

Adds Third Point

Wallace added that a third point relates to the Russian refusal to waive its veto rights as suggested in the American proposal.

"I must say I still feel that the veto question was unnecessarily raised in the American proposal and has served as a barrier to the successful negotiation of an international atomic energy treaty," he declared.

These critical issues, Wallace said, demonstrate the major thesis of "my letter to the President—the absence of attitudes of mutual trust and confidence between the United States and Russia."

"The United States atomic energy proposals as presented by Mr. Baruch have been variously described in glowing and in derogatory terms," the ex-commerce secretary continued. "They have not solved the problem. Nothing in the recent statements of Mr. Baruch would cause me to revise the basic tenets in my letter to President Truman concerning the way to peace and atomic energy control."

Sentence Jap Officers To Die

GUAM, Friday, Oct. 4—(AP)—Three high-ranking Japanese commanders on Chichi Jima were sentenced today to hang for cannibalism.

A U. S. military commission, which convicted the three Wednesday, ruled they must pay the supreme penalty for their part in a grisly feast at which roasted livers of executed U. S airmen were served.

The three, Lt. Gen. Yoshio Tachibana, Navy Capt. Shizuo Yoshii, and Major Sueo Matoba, heard the order of the commission without flinching. Only Tachibana bowed deeply to his judges.

The death sentences are subject to review by the secretary of navy.

Vice Adm. Kunzio Mori, who was acquitted of a charge of violating the laws and customs of war—the only charge to fit cannibalism—was sentenced to life imprisonment for neglect of duty.

Nine other defendants, convicted of ordering or taking part in the execution of downed American fliers, were given sentences ranging from life downward to five years.

Two Killed; 100 Injured In Explosions

MARCUS HOOK, Pa., Oct. 3—(AP)—At least two men were killed and 100 persons were injured tonight in a fire, accompanied by earth-shaking explosions, that raged for four hours in the Sun Oil company's $13,000,000 aviation gasoline refinery before being brought under control.

A company spokesman announced cotrol of the fire at 9:15 p. m. (CST) and added "damage undoubtedly will total several hundreds of thousands of dollars."

At Chester hospital the dead man was identified as James Woodburn, 47, of Claymount, Del., a Sun Oil company employe for nearly 20 years.

The hospital said 31 patients were admitted and four of them were in critical condition.

Nearly 50 additional injured were treated at that hospital, a spokesman added.

Company C, infantry, of the Pennsylvania National Guard, was mobilized in Chester and some guardsmen sent to the Marcus Hook plant.

A Sun Oil spokesman said "at least 40 of our employes, as far as we are able to determine were injured and remain in hospitals. Most of them suffered burns. x x."

A large acid tank began leaning periously and firemen were ordered withdrawn several hundred yards as the fire raged.

Two major blasts, the first at 6:10 p. m. shook an area 15 miles in diameter. The resulting fire, still raging three hours after it started, lit this Delaware river industrial community with an eerie red glow.

Board Adjourns; No Action on Dairy Products

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The price decontrol board adjourned indefinitely today without making any move to restore price ceilings on milk, butter, cheese and other dairy products.

A spokesman for the board said, however, that the subject of recontrol of dairy products is left open and may be taken up at any time on a call of Chairman Roy L. Thompson.

Hungry Calf

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark., Oct. 3—(AP)—The value of farmer Elmer Henderson's calf took a sudden $80 rise—to sudden for its own good.

Henderson put his wallet containing $80 on a bush when he started to mow a meadow. When he returned, the wallet was gone.

A friend suggested the possible culprit. Henderson killed the calf and found his $80, only slightly chewed.

Call By Kem To Throw Out The New Deal

GOP Nominee For Senate In Plea That Voters Unite

The circuit court room of the court house was packed with an enthusiastic crowd, who attended a rally of the Republican campaign in Sedalia Thursday night.

The meeting was called to order by the Chairman, Carl G. Schrader and was opened with the National Anthem played by the Kroencke band, and with prayer given by George H. Miller.

Mr. Schrader introduced all of the county candidates, and also John T. Martin, Sedalia attorney who presented Mr. Kem. Mrs. Kem who accompanied him to Sedalia was also introduced.

"True Democrats should join with Republicans and independent voters this fall in voting out of power the New Deal-Pendergast-PAC-Communist coalition now in control at Washington," James P. Kem, Republican nominee, for United States senator, said in his talk here.

Mr. Kem, accompanied by Mrs. Kem, visited Sedalia in order to meet and talk personally with as many people living in this county as possible.

In his visit all over the state, Mr. Kem said, he is finding increasing anxiety over the future of the country as a result of the confused and chaotic conditions caused by the New Deal attempt to control all activities of the people.

Attacks Control Policies

"Farmers," he said, "are having difficulty in getting the machinery and implements they need, and are harassed by constantly changing federal policies on farm prices and subsidies, and by bureaucratic controls over their actions.

"Housewives, who patriotically accepted necessary restrictions during the war, are now alarmed and bewildered by the continuing scarcity of essential goods and the increasing difficulties in making ends meet.

"Wage earners and veterans both have suffered from the strikes and industrial conflicts that have resulted from the failure of the New Deal administration and the New Deal Congress to develop a fair and impartial labor policy, and veterans have been further handicapped by the New Deal's muddling with the reconversion problem, which slowed down the housing program and has made it nearly impossible for them to get civilian clothing and other needed civilian goods.

"All these problems are a direct result of the New Deal attempt to order our daily lives, to regulate our habits, to ration our necessities and to guide us in our every footstep.

Moral Issues Involved

"But the issues in this campaign are moral as well as economic. The New Deal Democrats in this state have allied themselves with the Communists, who are godless and would destroy the church. They have allied themselves with the dishonest Pendergast political machine, which is dependent upon vice, crime and fraud for its power. They have allied themselves with the PAC, a pressure group established for the sole purpose of getting from the new deal congress and administration special privileges for the selfish interests they serve.

"I find that the people of Missouri, regardless of whether they usually vote Democrat or Republican, are now generally convinced that the Republican party is the only party through which we can return to the traditional American system of freedom of opportunity. This is the system which has resulted in giving us the world's finest standard of living and has made the United States the best place in the world in which to live.

"I urge, therefore, that the Democrats in this community

U. S. To Finish Year In Black

President Says That Expenses Be Sharply Cut

By William R. Spear

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—A positive prediction of a blanced budget by the end of the year was made today by President Truman, causing a flurry among fiscal officials who have been predicting a deficit of at least $1,900,000,000.

The President made his statement in replying, in his usual quick manner, to a question at his news conference. The matter came up in connection with the treasury report yesterday showing that receipts exceeded expeditures by $119,306,000 for the first three months of the fiscal year which started July 1.

Asked whether he hopes the treasury will be "in the black" at the end of the year as well, Mr. Truman answered that we not only hope we will be in the black—we are going to do it.

Remind Of Forecast

He was reminded then of his forecast in August of a $1,900,000,000 deficit for the year as a whole. He replied that this would be overcome by trimming expenses $2,100,000,000.

Fiscal officials explained, however, that the hope of holding the deficit to $1,900,000,000 was based on the prospect of the $2,100,000,000 reduction of expenses. There appeared to be some expectation among these officials that a clarifying statement might be issued by the White House.

The $2,100,000,00 reduction was to have been effected in part by holding public works spending to $900,000,000 instead of the $1,600,000,000 which congress voted.

Meanwhile, today's treasury statement showed the national debt had been reduced to $263,773,000,000 on Oct. 1 by cash redemption on that date of approximately $2,000,000,000 in government securities.

Nevertheless, the fiscal year surplus of $119,306,000 shown as September closed was slashed to a surplus of $34,110,000 as expenditures more than doubled tax receipts on the opening day of the second fiscal quarter.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—Ailing Cordell Hull, former secretary of state, lost ground during the day and is in grave condition, the navy medical center reported tonight.

In a 10 p. m. E.S.T. bulletin on his condition, the hospital, said: "Mr. Hull has lost ground during the day and his condition is considered grave tonight."

The 75-year-old Tennessean suffered a stroke Monday night, having entered the hospital, at Bethesda, Md., earlier for a general physical check-up.

Find Two Bodies In A Coal Mine

HARTFORD, Ark., Oct. 3—(AP)—The bodies of two coal miners, who apparently died of carbon monoxide poisoning, were found today in a deep shaft of an abandoned Mansfield Coal company mine near here.

The miners were Jim Ford, mine superintendent, and Lesley Glasco, both of Hartford. They had entered the old mine to refuel a gasoline engine which was used to pump water from the abandoned shaft to prevent seepage into a new mine nearby.

Witnesses said the two men apparently were overcome by fumes when they entered the shaft.

Talk On Trend In Crime Given

R. B. Ayers With FBI Is Speaker To B. and P.W.C.

Rowen B. Ayres, with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was guest speaker at the annual Public Relations dinner of the Sedalia Business and Professional Wowen's club, at the Bothwell hotel, Thursday night. His subject was "Modern Trend in Crime" and he gave a resume of the work of his department, explaining how various types of crime were under the jurisdiction of other departments, such as postoffice, treasury, OPA, and others. The work of the FBI, he explained, is under the attorney general's department.

Youths Lead In Crime

He stated records, finger prints in Washington, indicate there are 6,000,000 persons in the United States, with criminal records, persons who have committed felonies. Another sibnificant fact, he mentioned, is that the 17 year old youths lead all ages in the number of crimes. This, he explained, may be due to the fact that about three years ago there was a wave of juvenile delinquency, and today those boys are in the 17 year old class. The number of girls arrested, under 18 years of age, is also on the increase.

The present crime wave, Mr. Ayres explained, is not due to the return of men from service into civilian life. The army and navy, he said, do not make criminals. Naturally there will be some criminals among the military men, but the majority of criminals are men who never were in service and had no intention of getting there, men who were in reformatories or prisons during the war. He referred to the number of crime repeaters, although the fact a man has committed a crime does not mean he is always a repeater.

Offenses of Many Types

He spoke of the many types of crimes, cited instances of burglaries, robberies or other offenses, some of which were known to the guests, and told how the FBI continued on the case until it was solved and the offender punished. He closed his remark with a warning against bad check writers, stating there are many floating over the country today who may write them for small amounts, but if they write enough of them take in plenty of money for themselves until apprehended.

Mr. Ayres was introduced by Mrs. N. U. Renshaw, chairman of the public relations committee.

The talk was preceded by songs by Neal Powers, who, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. W. L. Monegan, sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," a Negro Spiritual, "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord," and as an encore "Mother Machree."

Mrs. Ollie McMullin club president, presided over the business session. She introduced three new members, Miss Patsy Rissler, Mrs. Nina Carpenter and Mrs. O. L. Scott. She also called attention to the district meeting of the club to be held in Columbia October 13.

Miss Grace Carter asked the invocation and club singing was led by Mrs. William Ward.

Representatives of the city and other civic clubs attending were: Mayor Julian H. Bagby; Z. Lyle Brown, Rotary, and Mrs. Brown; Pinkey Miller, Kiwanis, and Mrs. Miller; William F. Brown, Lions; Mr. and Mrs. I. H .Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Green, Chamber of Commerce; Dr. R. C. Legion Rejects Proposals For War II Bonus

Voice Support To Stelle In Feud With Bradley

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3—(AP)—The American Legion today turned thumbs down on a World War II veterans bonus, but plumped for a reduction of income taxes and immediate cash redemption of GI terminal leave bonds.

Rejection of bonus proposals followed a noisy, shouting demonstration in support of National Commander John Stelle of Illinois in his feud with Gen. Omar H. Bradley the veterans' administrator, and adoption of a resolution demanding an immediate session of congress to amend the veterans' training act.

Interviewed in Palo Alto, where he was inspecting a veterans' hospital this afternoon, Bradley said that if the present $200-a-month ceiling pay for veterans on-the-job training were found to be too low "we will recommend that it be raised."

"We are now getting figures on journeyman wages throughout the country," he said. "It was our feeling that veterans' pay should not exceed journeyman pay."

A report on the legislative committee rejecting the bonus and urging tax and terminal leave bond action was adopted unanimously. A trio of bonus proposals were turned down.

Propose An Exemption

The tax action proposed that veterans be exempted from paying taxes on the first $5,000 of earned income from the three years immediately following their discharge from the service.

In endosing legislative amendment to permit immediate cashing of terminal leave bonds, the Legion convention took a stand against the position of the Truman administration in providing for non-redeemable bonds as a temporary anti-inflation step.

The Legion also adopted a report by its foreign relations committee strongly endorsing U. S. foreign policy as expressed by Secretary of State Byrnes, criticizing Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia and demanding that all shipments to Yugoslavia be cut off.

Much of the day's session was devoted to the Stelle-Bradley controversy.

The action followed a long-defiant speech by Stelle, supported by former National Commander Harry W. Colmery of Kansas.

No count of the vote of applause and cheers for Steele's stand.

The proceedings delayed for more than half a day a series of speeches that had been on the program.

Steele reopened his long standing disagreement with Bradley at the first convention session Monday when he sharply criticized the $200-month ceiling and two-year limitation on veterans' on-the-job training.

Today Stelle counterattacked by reiterating his accusation that Bradley had "broken faith" with the veterans.

Stelle contended that Bradley had pushed through the ceiling act last August a few days before congress adjourned. He called it "sneak legislation," a phrase which drew loud cheers from the floor.

While refraining from calling Bradley by name and declaring "it is regrettable that personalities have entered into this matter," Stelle drew another round of cheers when he said the Legion "is a fighting organization and it accepts the veterans' administrator's challenge."

To Bradley's plea for economy, Stelle said, "let him start by reducing the size of his publicity staff."

This staff, according to Stelle, numbers more than 300 persons and costs nearly $2,000,000 annually. Stelle also asserted several times that the veterans' administration had a total of 177,000 employes.

Rep. Errett P. Schrivner (R-Kas), told the convention the limitations on the training act had been "railroaded" through congress over his protests.

Former Commander Colmery came to Stelle's aid also with a long, critical address on the veterans' administrator.

Bradley was not present today, a fact which Colmery vocally regretted. Colmery said he did not believe that Stelle had failed to cooperate had impugned Bradley's motives, as Bradley had charged Wednesday.

"Although I respect you (Bradley) for defending your integrity under the circumstances, I feel that you performed beneath the dignity of your office," Colmery said.

39 Dead In Crash of Plane

Newfoundland Tragedy Worst In Commercial Air Lines History

STEPHENVILLE, Nfld., Oct. 3—(AP)—All 39 persons aboard an American overseas plane, including wives and children of U. S. soldiers in Europe, perished today in a flaming crash into the side of a wooded Newfoundland hill—the worst tragedy in the history of commercial aviation.

A searching party which hacked its way through wood and underbrush to the scene of the disaster sent back this terse message: "No survivors."

Instructions sent to the U. S. coast guard base earlier for a helicopter to be used in rescue work were cancelled since there was nothing it could do.

U. S. authorities at St. John's could advance no theory as to the cause of the crash and suggested that it would remain a mystery.

The coast guard in New York received a brief message also saying that rescue parties reported all persons aboard the plane were dead.

Nine of the 12 women aboard the Skymaster plane were en route to join their husbands, most of them with occupation troops abroad. Five of the women were accompanied by six children, whose ages ranged from 11 years to 20 months.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—American Overseas Airlines announced today the list of passengers of the DC-4 which crashed near Stephenville, Newfoundland.

The passengers are those who boarded the plane at La Guardia Field yesterday morning en route to Stephenville. The company explained that some passengers may have debarked upon landing at the Newfoundland port.

The list includes:

Ethel Agnes Miessler, 47, of 2701 East Douglas, Wichita, Kansas, housewife.

Dorothy Gertrude McCormick, 26, Box 272 Lebanon, Mo., housewife.

Mary Jane Merrill, 32, of 513 North Franklin, Farmington, Mo., housewife. (Booked from New York to Berlin.)

Aboard the giant airliner were 31 passengers and a crew of eight. Many of the women were housewives enroute to Europe to join their husbands. The children's ages ranged from three months to eleven years old.

Enroute to Berlin

The four engine DC-4 Skymaster was enroute from New York to Berlin and plunged into the side of a rocky hill 10 minutes after it left Stephenville, Nfld., at 3:24 a. m. (EST). It left New York yesterday at 10:35 a. m.

The Air France captain, Jacques Charmos, said he was at Hammon field, Stephenville, ten miles from the scene of the crash when it occurred.

"I could see the glow of the explosion before I took off," he said, "after the takeoff, we circled the wreck. The plane hit the side of a hill quite high up and was still smoking.

The light was poor and I could not identify any part of the plane. I saw a burnt spot on the hillside. It is a fairly wooded hill. I could see no path cut through the trees. The plane probably went straight into the hill."

Earlier reports to the coast guard indicated the plane hit one-half mile up the side of the hill and 100 feet from the top of the slope, which is covered with rocks and scrub trees.

Capt. Charmoz said the 42 persons in his plane, 12 of them women, caught a glimpse of the wreckage.

Fire Smoldering

Another description of the wreckage was given by Robert Albee of (4 Dartmouth street) Forest Hills, N. Y., navigator on the French plane.

"Our plane circled the wreck at 1,500 feet," Albee related. "I could not see the actual fire, but the whole plane was smouldering. The fire had died down quite a bit, but there still was a glow."

The navigator said PBYs were landing four to five miles from the wreckage.

Earlier, the coast guard said it was raining in the area and that the PBYs probably would have to come down enroute.

The coast guard, in a radio message sent at 9:48 a. m., (EST) said three persons, believed to be Newfoundland civilians, were at the scene and an army searching party was at the foot of the hill to which the plane crashed.

The message, sent from a coast guard plant at the scene, said the airliner appeared to have exploded after the crash and that only a tiny fragment of the ship was visible. There was a heavy rain at the time.

It was the second plane tragedy in the Newfoundland wilds in two weeks. On Sept. 18 a Belgian Sabena airliner crashed near Gander, killing 27 of the 44 aboard.

Stephenville is on the west coast of Newfoundland, 927 air miles from New York and approximately 225 miles west of Gander.

Letter on Future Use of SAAF

In answer to an inquiry concerning the future use of the Sedalia Army Air Field, Ellsworth Green, executive secretary of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, has received the following letter:

"Headquarters Army Air Forces

"Sedalia, Missouri
"Dear Major Green:

"Reference is made to your letter dated September 17, 1946, concerning the future use of Sedalia Army Air Field, Missouri.

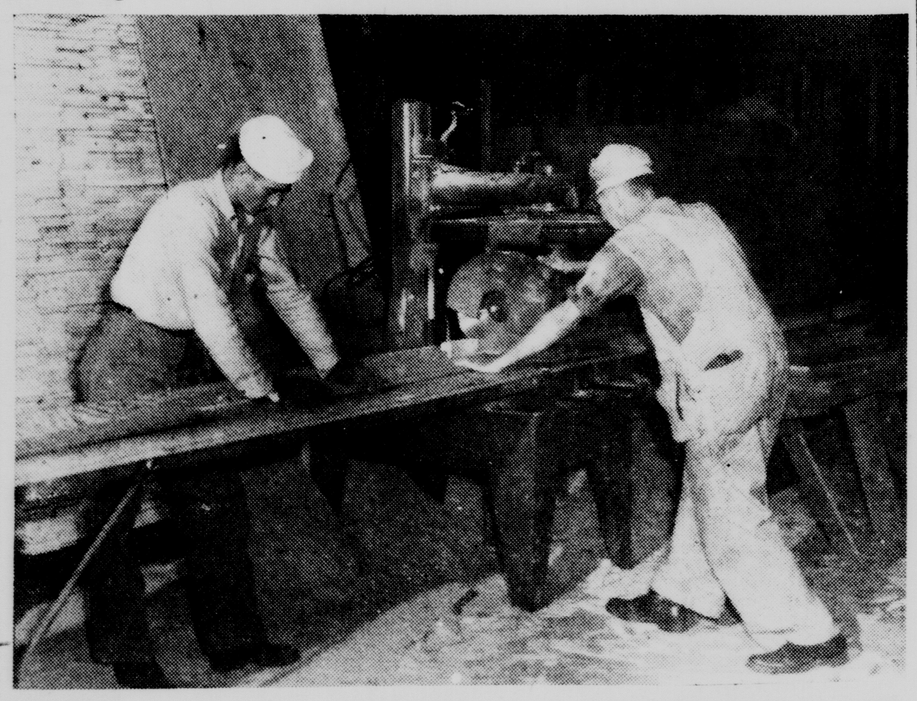

"The recent inactivation of Sedalia Army Air Field was the result of a shortage of personnel which is apparent throughout the Army Air Forces, and not due to a change of plans for the utilization of this field. This installation has been selected for use by the interim air forces as a transport base and will also be used for the Air Reserve program.

"Your interest in this matter is appreciated. In the event that we can be of further assistance to you, we shall be happy to serve you.

Veteran Died Saturday Of Bullet Wounds

Funeral Monday At First Baptist Church in Sedalia

John Thomas Rogers, 1327 Troost avenue, Kansas City, 23 year old veteran and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Rogers of Stover, died Saturday of bullet wounds and Kansas City police are taking statements and measuring bullet holes to determine whether it was suicide or murder.

Funeral services for the young man will be held at the First Baptist church in Sedalia at 2:00 o'clock Monday afternoon with the Rev. G. M. Baker to officiate, and interment will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

Kansas City police responding to reports of a shooting at Fifteenth and Holmes streets at 3:15 o'clock Saturday morning said they found Mrs. Rogers and her fifteen month old daughter in an alley between Holmes and Charlotte south of Fifteenth street beside Rogers, who was dying.

Bullet Entered Forehead

The police reported a bullet entered Roger's forehead, leaving powder burns. A small caliber pistol lay a few feet away, not far from two empty shells.

Near the alley, police said, they found a motor car with a door open and lights on. In it were letters addressed to James Curtis Walker, 21 years old, 1214 Monroe avenue, former husband of Mrs. Rogers. Mrs. Rogers explained she had been married first to Rogers then married Walker who, she said, is the father of her child. She and Walker were divorced last April, she said and she remarried Rogers in June, separating from him on August 23.

Mrs. Rogers was quoted by police as saying Rogers shot himself after he had shot and missed Walker. She and the child were riding in Walker's motor car, she said.

Walker Surrendered

Walker surrendered to officers at 5:30 o'clock Kansas City Saturday morning and is being held for questioning while Mrs. Rogers is detained as a material witness. Walker said he had fled when confronted by Rogers and had hidden in a weed patch until police left the scene of the shooting. He bore no pistol, police said, but admitted owning one. There was a bullet hold in the Walker car and police were trying to determine whether the bullet was from the weapon found beside Rogers.

Surviving Rogers besides his parents are the following brothers and sisters: Floyd Rogers, 2205 South Ohio, this city; Franklin D., George William, Dennis Dale and Walter Eugene Rogers, all of Stover, Mrs. Ruth Knecht, 2205 South Ohio avenue, Mrs. Carrie Barber, Kansas City, Mrs. Ruby Shackles, Sedalia; Vanis Durl Rogers, Stover and one half brother, Everet Rogers of Stover.

Annual Report On Library Is Compiled

Upturn in Number Of New Readers And Circulation

The 51st annual report of the library system of the City of Sedalia for the fiscal year ending April 30, 1946, has been compiled by Miss Mary Kay English librarian, and states in part:

"The year at the library was marked by an upturn in new readers and circulation, the first substantial gain in several years. The total number of books loaned was 89,792, a gain of 11,172 over the previous year. A six per cent increase in the children's department is responsible for the largest part of this gain. Circulation is often taken too much as a measure of the library's usefulness. Many readers spend hours in the reading rooms with reference material and magazines, of which no record is kept.

Many Readers

"There are 4,170 registered borrowers now and one hundred and forty county borrowers, who pay the one dollar fee for a card. Twenty-four one room rural schools and one consolidated school subscribe for library service.

"Last year 1,254 books were added to the collection, and this total represents a larger expenditure for books than we have had for many years. Replacement of old editions were made in as far as it was possible. Because of the paper shortage some titles wanted and needed were not available. The library ended the year with two hundred and seventy three more books than it had May 1, 1945.

"The building has been put in good repair. A new twenty-year guaranteed roof has replaced the old pitch and gravel flat roof. The second story floors were scraped and refinished.

Children's Librarian

"One of the goals achieved in 1945 was a trained children's librarian who came to us September 1st. This was our opportunity to place new emphasis on reading for boys and girls. Every effort was made to attract those who had not yet discovered the joys of reading. Story hours were held every Saturday morning with an average attendance of 86. School visits were made to the grade and parochial schools in the fall and again in the spring. Classes from the 5th, 6th and 7th grades visited the library and were given short instructions on the use of the catalogue, the dictionary and on how to find books on the shelves. These many and varied activities in the children's room has brought a 9,244 increase in the number of books read by Sedalia boys and girls. We are justly proud of this progress.

"To strengthen the library's program for the coming year the following objectives should be considered:

"1. New chairs for the reading room and the children's room.

"2. Improvement of the lighting in those two rooms and the lobby.

"3. Filming the files of Sedalia newspapers.

"The library has been favored with gifts of books and flowers from many interested friends to whom personal thanks have been gratefully expressed."

Roughage To Keep Up Milk Production

Sound Dairy Program To Get The Most Milk

Maximum production of nutritious, high quality milk and milk products while keeping within practical farm and dairy management practices is the objective of dairying as a farm enterprise, says A. C. Ragsdale of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture The place to start such a program is with the land itself, and the way to start is by organizing farming operations in relation to number of dairy cattle, labor, and equipment.

Fertilizing the soil increases the feed suppy and can be supplemented with other practices to increase both yield and quality of crops. Its importance lies just as much in increasing quality of feed as it does in increasing yield, states Mr. Ragsdale. The nutrients must be in the ground before they can get into the crops, and they must be in the crops before the cow can utilize them.

Plenty of roughage is necessary for maximum production and in nearly all cases can be supplied on the farm. Care in planning calls for the selection of good crops for hay and pasture. Valuable nutrients in a crop may be lost in careless handling and storage.

Feed Roughage Liberally

For best results, roughage needs to be fed liberally, continues Mr Ragsdale, which means that the cow needs to have all she wants Grain rations should be fed in proportion to the amount of milk she produces. Roughage can be fed into the summer when pastures start to fail. This holds up production and averts the usual summer slump. It is easier to keep up production then to raise it after a slump.

Feed given to heifers and dry cows will pay dividends in milk after calving, too. Included in the proper use of feeds is the use of plenty of good water and salt.

Another important step in a sound dairy program is providing or maintaining a herd of cows that will give the most milk in return for good feed, says Mr. Ragsdale The sires with close ancestors that have proved superior are best. If possible, those with proved daughters should be selected. Artificial breeding can be used advantageously for the majority of the herds In any case nothing less than a purebred bull is recommended to head any herd.

Good records and a sound testing program are essential in a good herd management program. Only through them can the dairyman know his better cows. A good form of production testing for the grade herd is the Dairy Herd Improvement Association program.

A strict sanitation program and careful attention to the smallest symptoms of disease are necessary in keeping the herd healthy. Disease to be on the lookout for are tuberculosis, Bang's disease, mastitis, Vaginitis and trichomoniasis

Time To Protect The Fruit Trees

Every winter many young fruit trees and other fruit plants are seriously damaged and frequently killed by rabbits and mice. Such plants should be given protection, especially now when fruits are badly needed. All grass and rubbish should be removed from around the plants so that mice will not harbor there and injure the trunk and roots.

Fruit trees should be protected to a height of 18 inches with a good rabbit guard, such as close-meshed wire netting or wood veneer, or wrapped with paper, corn stalks or some other readily available material. Such protection should be applied in October.

If rabbits are particularly damaging to berry bushes such as raspberries, blackberries, etc., the berry patch can be fenced with poultry netting.

Had An Acre For Club Garden

4-H club garden project members of the Crystal Springs Willing Workers 4-H club and their project leader, Mrs. Charles Brown have engaged in a worthwhile activity in connection with their garden club this year. The members and their leader were fortunate in haveing the use of an acre of land in the community to use as a club garden. The use of the land was given by a neighbor, interested in the 4-H club members and the pupils of the Crystal Springs school.

The object which the members and their leaders had in mind was to supply the vegetables necessary for the hot school lunches at the Crystal Springs school. Vegetables planted were bush beans, lima beans, tomatoes, cucumbers, sweet potatoes, and corn. With the dry weather in mid-summer it appeared as though their efforts had been in vain. Frequent hoeing and weeding was, however, continued by the members under the supervision of their leader. After the August rains the garden still produced a lot of vegetables.

To date 85 quarts of fresh vegetables have been harvested and canned from the club garden. If favorable weather continues green beans, dry beans and corn are still to be canned and added to the list of vegetables for use in the hot school lunches.

4-H club leaders and mothers of the school pupils and others furnish the jars, the pressure cookers and also can the vegetables in the school kitchen. At one of the recent meetings the following women assisted: Mrs. George Perriguey, Mrs. Ethel Blaul, Mrs Winifred Anderson, Mrs. T. Pohl

Properly Feed Young Litter

Young suckling pigs respond favorably to any good treatment which is afforded them. The skilled hog raiser can expect a maximum return from his effort to properly feed and manage the young litter. Young pigs which receive improper care before weaning start with a handicap which is seldom overcome. Data by the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station show that with the same treatment after weaning, pigs of light weight at weaning time take ten days to two weeks longer to reach a markettable weight than do pigs which have a relatively heavy weight when weaned.

An important factor determining the weaning weight of pigs is the amount of milk which a sow will produce for her litter. Further records secured at the Missouri station show that a group of sows fed an average of 4.62 lbs. of feed daily for the period of eight weeks following farrowing, produced pigs which averaged only 15 lbs at weaning time as compared with an average weight of more than 25 lbs. at eight weeks of age in the case of a group ot sows fed an average of a little more than 10 lbs. per day during the suckling period.

In addition to pigs from sows fed a liberal ration during the lactation period having a higher weaning weight, they are also usually much better able to cope with disease such as worm infestation and generally a larger number of pigs per sow are weaned.

Ex-Convict Is Held on Check Charge

Released From State Prison Last July 13

Frank Powers, alias Frank Howard, Frank Paris, an ex-convict, was arrested Sunday night on a charge of forgery at a farm home on R. F. D. 3, where he had been employed for several weeks. Powers was released from the Missour penitentiary on July 13, after serving 33 months on a manslaughter charge.

On information from Springfield, Mo., his home town, Powers was picked up for investigation in connection with forgery charges there. However, local police who went with State Troopers Pete Stohr and Wayne Allman to make the arrest, learned of several checks which he had written in Sedalia Sunday on the Union Savings bank.

Powers was detained in the county jail until Monday morning for investigation and police took the checks to the bank to ascertain if they were any good. "No account" was written on one and a charge of forgery issued against him on this check. Police have three such checks in their possession and are endeavoring to learn if there are any more "floating" around Sedalia.

Blames Liquor

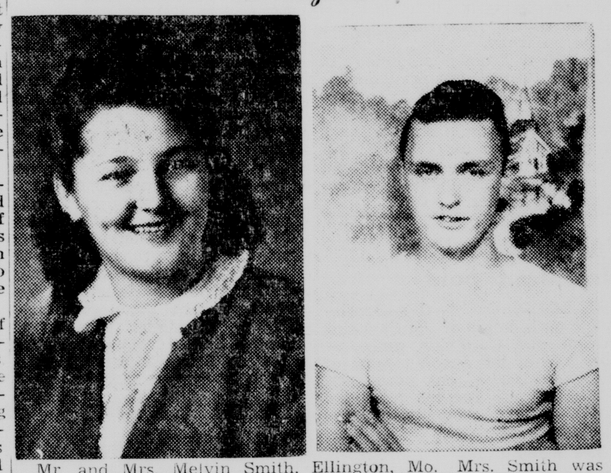

Sunday night Powers told the officers he was released from the penitentiary July 13 on a manslaughter charge. He said he was sentenced to prison after cutting a man in Springfield, who later died. In the fight, he said, he was also stabbed 13 times. "It all grows out of drinking," he said, "and every time I get drunk I get into trouble. I was in Jeff City (meaning the prison) only once, but have been arrested many times for being drunk."

When informed he was in Sedalia and the pickup issued, officers were notified to take every precaution in making the arrest. State Troopers reported that some time ago he fought it out with two police officers and a state patrolman, cutting the patrolman with a knife, then made his escape. This, Powers denied when asked about it, his remarks being, "I have been in a lot of fights, but I don't remember cutting a Trooper. I do things when I'm drunk that I can't even remember."

Powers is 62 years old, has been married twice, has two grown children. He says he is a one-time boxer.

Proper Method To Handle Pears

The proper harvesting, storage and utilization of pears will determine the food value of this crop to the family this fall and winter.

Many of the common pear varieties in Missouri develop stone cells in the flesh if allowed to thoroughly mature upon the tree Such varieties will give a higher quality product if harvested before they are fully colored and matured and before these stone cells develop. Pears for home use and canning should be harvested as soon as the seed and the color of the fruit indicates maturity The fruit should be carefully handled and placed in containers then stored in an open shed or along the north side of a building and covered lightly with some protective material. Such storage place gives the coolest conditions possible on the average farm Pears handled in this manner will ripen thoroughly within ten days or two weeks. The fruit is then in the best condition for eating and for canning. Some of the fruit may be left in this storage space until freezing weather threatens at which time it can be placed in a cave or cellar and used fresh.

As a general rule pears will not keep in common storage in Missouri longer than 60 days. Certain varieties have a somewhat longer storage period but the common varieties generally fall within this classification. Pears that are ripened by a short storage period will give a better flavored canned product than those which are canned as soon as the fruit is picked.

If you will keep your dustpan well waxed, you will find it always looks clean, and the dust and dirt slips from the pan more easily.

'Shades of Yesteryear' In Baseball

Seen in Action at Liberty Park Sunday Bringing Memories Of Other Days

Once again members of some of the famous old teams that have represented Sedalia in the past mostly former professional baseball players put on their spiked shoes and got into action against the Sedalia Ramblers Sunday afternoon at Liberty park before a large crowd.

The Ramblers won the contest 4 to 2 in a far better played game than was anticipated by local fans.

The game ended with the old timers "long on weight and short on breath" playing some fancy ball throughout the nine innings. The old timers showed the fans some of their old time tricks of the trade in the fifth inning when the Ramblers filled the bases with one out. Green, the Rambler pitcher, was on third base when Ellsworth pulled the 'hidden ball trick" for out number two The next batter walked. Then Taylor hit a short fly ball into centerfield. "Just a can of corn" boomed Potts Evans, mammoth first baseman, using the ballplayers phrase to describe a looper of that kind. Hank Williams, centerfielder, dashed across the field like Tarzan swinging from the trees in a jungle or Superman going to a fire and dived headlong to make a catch. It sounded like a 16 ton truck smacking a General Grant tank as Williams hit the ground. He was considerably shaken up but it was "the fielding play of the day."

The Ramblers pitched their star lefthander, Green, who was "fast and furious" on the mound to hear the old timers tell it. Elmer Dillard, whose name struck terror to many a batter in the past, hurled the first five innings. Someone said that he was using something called an "emery ball." Anyway the "kids" could not do anything with it.

"Potts" Evans was seen scratching the ball several times during the game. After drivivng out a base hit in the first of the sixth inning, Dillard retired in favor of Rothganger, who retired the side in the sixth. Taking over for the old timers in the seventh to finish the game was "Lefty" Harold Schwenk. He was a diamond star for the St. Louis Browns thirty-three years ago which shows that you can't keep a good "kid" down.

It should be pointed out that the average age of the Ramblers was considerably lower than that of their opponents and were in good condition from a strenuous baseball season. Rudy Buss played a nifty game in the outfield for the old timers.

In all seriousness it was a great exhibition and a fine way to end the 1946 baseball season. The old timers plan to organize a "3 and 3" club which will stage the game annually and help promote interest in baseball in Sedalia. A committee composed of E. L. Ellsworth, P. R. Nichols and H. L. Williams was selected to make the preliminary plans for the club's organization.

Players who performed for the old timers were "Potts" Evans and Fred Wagner first base, "Slug" Nichols and Bill Walker, second base; Dutch Hawley shortstop, Gabby Ellsworth third base, Hank Williams centerfielder, John Thomas rightfield, Al Buhlig catcher, Elmer Dillard, Wilbur Rothganger and Harold Schwenk pitchers and Ralph Falls, pinch hitter

Score by innings:

Old Timers	001	000	001—	2	4	1
Ramblers	001	010	02x—	4	6	2

Rural Free Delivery Fifty Years Old Tuesday

R. F. D. was 50 years old Tuesday.

It was on October 1, 1896, that the first experimental rural free delivery mail service was established, in three West Virginia communities.

Now 29,641,772 persons are served by 32,126 rural mail carriers. The carriers travel 455,209,975 miles a year.

Today no one questions the value of R. F. D. But in the 90s violent opposition arose to the proposal to deliver mail free of charge to rural communities.

Opponents in and out of congress talked of bad roads, of cost, of money being spent for the benefit of just one class. Only after a long fight did congress consent to appropriate a small sum for the first experiment.

Success Beyond Dreams

Postmaster General Hannegan says "the success of the experiment went far beyond the dreams of the early advocates of rural free delivery, for the new service did more than offer convenience."

In a foreword to Mrs. G. W. Saberg's book, "The R. F. D.," official golden jubilee book of the National Rural Letter Carriers Association, Hannegan adds:

"Amazingly, rural free delivery bound farmer to city dweller and shattered the isolation which had been threatening healthy American rural life. It opened and set in motion a flourishing new commerce. It proved an extraordinary force in unifying the nation."

Idea Not New

Actually the idea of rural delivery was not new. England had introduced it earlier. But Hannegan notes that "no precedent existed for the gigantic task undertaken in America, for here the problem was to span a continent from ocean to ocean, to conquer mountains and deserts, frozen wastes and tropical swamps."

The groundwork was laid in 1891, when Postmaster General Wanamaker in his annual report made the first official suggestion.

Rep. O'Donnell, of Michigan, on January 5, 1892, introduced the first bill in congress to set up the service. It carried an appropriation of $6,000,000, but failed to pass.

Finally congress on March 3, 1893, passed a bill proposed by Representative Watson, of Georgia. It set aside $10,000 for experimental rural delivery. The postmaster general considered this sum inadequate to introduce the service. So on July 6, 1894, another $20,000 was made available, and the further sum of $10,000 on June 9, 1896.

West Virginia First

The first experimental service was set up in West Virginia. Three routes operated out of Charleston, one out of Halltown and another out of Uvilla. They averaged about 20 miles. Each of the five carriers was paid $200 a year.

By 1897 there were 82 rural routes, covering 1,843 miles at an annual cost of $14,840. On September 1, 1946, there were 32,197 routes with a total mileage of 1,441,538. Rural delivery cost $107,046,080 for the 12 months ending June 30, 1945.

The first complete county rural service was established December 20, 1899, in Carroll county, Md., the postoffice department says. Latest available figures show that 1,583 of the nation's 3,070 counties have R. F. D. service.

Rural routes vary in length from six to 100 miles. The longest is 99.80 miles out of Edinburg, Texas. The average length is 44 miles.

Many present day rural carriers zip along in automobiles, but early day carriers had rough times. Many had to have charcoal heaters to ward off wintry blasts and specially designed buggies with enclosed fronts.

Wore Navy Uniforms

In "The R. F. D." Mrs. Aaberg recalls that the earliest rural carriers wore navy blue uniforms with specially designed vizored caps. Later congress approved a bluish gray which would not show dirt so easily. Finally the carriers abandoned the uniform idea and wore whatever was best suited to the climate in their areas.

"The R. F. D." also recalls some of the carriers' early tribulations. One was money. The other was roads.

In 1902 the rural carrier's salary was $50 a month. In 1915 the pay of a carrier serving a route 24 miles or over, six days a week, was only $1,200 a year.

Those early carriers were so short on funds, Mrs. Aaberg reports, that in 1903 only 14 of the 15,000 carriers promised to attend the first R. F. D. carriers' convention. But it was held, and about 90 showed up.

According to "The R. F. D.," the delegates as their third resolution recommended:

Changed Magazine Number

"That the R. F. D. News (a weekly magazine) he requested to change its heading, which now shows a mail wagon drawn by one horse, to a wagon drawn by two horses, as one horse is not sufficient to draw a covered mail wagon."

The editor carried out the suggestion.

In the early 1900s roads often became impassable in muddy weather. Some carriers, says "The R. F. D.," experimented by using bicycles. In 1906, the postmaster general authorized the use of cars, and by 1908 the motorcycle was being advertised for use by carriers.

Something else new—called the "hammock cart," a two-wheeled vehicle supposed to ride easier than a buggy—was being offered as "just the thing for rural carriers."

Today the rural carrier is a postoffice on wheels. He furnishes his patrons the same services offered by a postoffice. He also obtains livestock statistical reports for the agriculture department.

Rural delivery of mail was established in Sedalia Oct. 1, 1902, with four routes: Route No. 1, Eddie Kemp, carrier; Route No. 2, Daniel W. Spicer, carrier; Route No. 3, James F. Hieronymus, carrier; Route No. 4, John V. Harris, carrier and later superintendent of mails in the Sedalia office.

Daniel Spicer, appointed on the first of October, met a tragic death on the 3rd of the month. His home was at 1016 East Ninth street. He had arisen early us usual, milked the cow, brought the milk in and placed it on the kitchen table, and returned to turn the cow on the prairie prior to getting ready to go on his route, when neighbors saw him running frantically around on the prairie, his clothes in flames. Before help could reach him he had fallen to the ground, dead. What occurred was a mystery, according to the newspaper accounts of the death.

David W. Overstreet was appointed his successor.

Cardinals National Champs

Defeat Brooklyn in Playoff Series To Straight Games; to World Series Now

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, Oct. 3—(AP)—St. Louis clinched the National League pennant and a World Series berth opposite the Boston Red Sox today by staving off a ninth-inning Brooklyn rally and defeating the Dodgers, 8-4, while making a clean sweep of baseball's first playoff series.

Murry Dickson, a converted relief artist, had things all his own way with a brilliant two-hitter until the ninth, when he gave way to Harry Brecheen in a three-run ninth-inning that provided the only thrill of the game to the 31,437 spectators.

The Brooks had the bases loaded and the tying run at the plate when pinch hitter Howie Schultz struck out to end the game, the playoff and the regular season, giving Eddie Dyer a pennant in his freshman year as big league manager.

Thus the Cardinals will be hosts to the Red Sox in the first game of the 1946 World Series on Sunday.

Leo Durocher's persistent Dodgers were completely befuddled through the first eight innings as the Cards piled up the runs assurring them of their ninth league title since 1926.

The two teams that had wound up in an exact first place tie at the close of the regular schedule met for the first time in the best-of-three playoff set at St. Louis Tuesday where the Cardinals banged out a 4-2 edge behind Howie Pollet. Dickson's performance provided another amazing chapter in one of baseball's strangest seasons. The wiry righthander from Tracy, Mo., hadn't started a game until June 9 and had not been considered worthy of a starting job the last time the Red Birds visited Brooklyn.

So bitter was the disappointment of Brooklyn's fandom that, a minute after the final out, Enos "Country" Slaughter was wrapped in a fist-swinging session with a Dodger rooter near home plate. The cops finally pried them apart after several hundred fans had close in on the combatants.

Every man in the starting Card line-up hit safely, and Moore, Dusak, Clyde Kluttz and Dickson each connected twice. Kurowski, Slaughter and Marty Marion each banged two runs across. Musial was deprived of a second hit when Furillo raced far into right center field to pull down what looked like a certain double. It was the fielding gem of the game.

All the proceeds of today's game were given by President Branch Rickey of the Dodgers to the ground and office force at Ebbets Field.

Play-by-Play

First Inning Cards

Schoendienst grounded out to Hatten on a 3 and 2 pitch. Moore lined a single to left on the first pitch. Hank Behrman, right hander, was already warming up for the Dodgers. Furillo made a fine running catch of Musial's drive to right center and Moore just got back to first to prevent a double play. Kurowski raised a high fly to Furillo in short center. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

First Inning Dodgers

Dickson fanned Stanky on three pitches but when Kluttz dropped the third strike Stanky ran toward first but was out Kluttz to Musial. After missing a curve ball, Whitman grounded out, Schoendienst to Musial. Galan was credited with a single when he outfooted a high bounder past the mound on which Schoendienst made a nice stop but threw badly to first. After pitching nothing but strikes to the first three batters F. Walker walked on four straight pitches. Stevens rammed a single through Dickson's legs into center field scoring Galan and sending F. Walker to second. Munger began warming up in the Cardinal bull pen. Moore romped into right center to pull in Furillo's long fly. One run, two hits, no errors, two left.

Second Inning Cardinals

Galan scooped up Slaughter's bounding ball near third base and threw to Stevens for the put out. Dusak smashed a long line drive to left field which Whitman touched but failed to hold. Dusak going all the way to third. The Dodgers protested bitterly over umpire Reardon's decision but to no avail. Dusak was credited with a triple. Marion lifted to Furillo in medium center but Dusak running after the catch beat Furillo's throw to tie the score. Kluttz whistled a single between short and second into center. Dickson lined a triple to the right field wall between Furillo and F. Walker to score Kluttz with the run that put the Cards ahead 2 to 1. Schoendienst popped to Stevens. Two runs, three hits, no errors, one left.

Second Inning Dodgers

Reese was called out on strikes, and again Kluttz dropped the ball and had to throw to Musial for the put out. Edwards walked on five pitches. Hatten, attempting to sacrifice, bunted sharply to Dickson who threw to Marion at second base to force Edwards. Dickson also took Stanky's bounder and threw him out. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Third Inning Cards

After looking at two called balls, Moore grounded out, Stanky to Stevens. Stanky also scooped up Musial's hot grounder and threw him out. Kurowski worked the count to 3 and 2 and then walked. It was the first pass issued by Hatten. Whitman came in fast for Slaughter's high pop in back of short. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Third Inning Dodgers

Schoendinst camped under Whitman's high pop in back of second base. Musial took Galan's grounder and stepped on first for the out. Kurowski caught F. Walker's foul near the third base stands. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fourth Inning Cards

Galan whipped out Dusak on a fast play. Marion worked the count to 3 and 2 and walked after Hatten threw three straight balls to Kluttz, left hander Vic Lombardi left the Dodger dugout for the bull pen. Hatten then threw over two strikes and got Kluttz on a high fly to Whitman in left. Reese raced in back of third to make a splendid stop of Dickson's slow roller and with a perfect underhand toss to Stanky forced Marion at second. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Fourth Inning Dodgers

Dusak hauled in Stevens' fly near the left field foul line. After fouling off two pitches on a 3 and 2 count, Furillo popped weakly to Marion just behind the mound. Kurowski backed up for Reese's sharp grounder and made a long throw to first for the out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fifth Inning Cardinals

Schoendienst flied to Furillo in left center. Moore swung under a high breaking curve and sent a high pop to Reese. Musial lined a double against the right field wall. It was the Cardinals first hit since the second inning. Kurowski was purposely passed. Slaughter slammed a triple off the right center field wall to score Musial and Kurowski and to increase the Cardinals lead to 4 to 1. Dusak sent a blistering drive past the head of Hatten out into center field, Slaughter coming in with the third St. Louis run and the fifth of the game. Behrman with an 11 and 5 won and lost record and one win and no defeats against the Cards replaced Hatten on the mound. Marion lined a single to center for his first hit of the series, sending Dusak to third. F. Walker came in to take Kluttz's fly in short right. Three runs, four hits, no errors, two left.

Fifth Inning Dodgers

Edwards worked the count to 3 and 2 and walked for the second time. Hermanski, a lefthanded batter swung for Behrman. Dickson hooked over a beautiful curve ball, which Hermanski took for a third called strike. When Stanky took his place at the plate, catcher Kluttz complained that his right foot was outside the batter's box and umpire Pinelli ordered Stanky to get nearer to the plate. After fouling off two pitches, Stanky hit into a double play, Dickson to Marion to Musial. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Sixth Inning Cardinals

Lombardi (13-10) who has dropped three decisions to the Cards, went to the mound to pitch the sixth inning. Reese knocked down Dickson's hot smash but the Cardinal pitcher beat the throw to first base for a single. Schoendienst sacrificed Dickson to second, Edwards picking up his bunt in front of the plate and throwing to Stanky at first for the out. Stanky gobbled up Moore's bounder near second base and threw him out, Dickson moving to third. Lombardi made a gloved hand stab of Musial's smash back of the box and threw him out. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Sixth Inning Dodgers

Dickson tossed out Whitman who swung on the first pitch. Galan also swung at the first pitch and he too hit back to Dickson who threw him out. Schoendienst tossed out F. Walker. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Seventh Inning Cards

Kurowski worked the count to 3 and 2 and walked for the third straight time. Slaughter walked on four straight pitches, Kurowski moving to second. Dusak sacrificed both runners along, Galan to Stanky who covered first. On a squeeze play, Kurowski scored from third when Higbe fielded Marion's bunt and tagged the Card shortstop out but could not make a play at the plate. Slaughter moved to third. Galan threw out Kluttz to end the top half of the inning, with the Cards ahead 6 to 1. One run, no hits, no errors, one left.

Seventh Inning Dodgers

Musial fumbled Stevens' grounder but recovered in time to toss to Dickson at first for the out. Marion threw out Furillo from deep short. Reese walked. Edwards bounded to Schoendinst who tossed to Marion at second forcing Reese. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Eighth Inning Cardinals

Dickson became the first St. Louis strikeout victim when he watched a curve ball break over the third strike. Schoendienst rapped a single into center on the first pitch, Moore's high drive into the left field corner bounced into the stands for a ground rule double, Schoendienst being held at third. Musial was purposely walked filling the bases. Kurowski hit Higbe's first pitch for a line single past first base to score Schoendienst and Moore with the Cards' seventh and eighth runs and sent Musial to third. Slaughter, after working the count to 3 and 2, walked to again load the bases. Melton, a righthander with a six and three record replaced Higbe on the mound to become the fifth Dodger pitcher. Harry Walker, a left handed batter, swung for Dusak. H. Walker fouled to Edwards behind the plate. Marion worked the count to 3 and 2 and grounded out to Reese. Two runs, three hits, no errors, three left.

Eighth Inning Dodgers

H. Walker went to left field for the Cards. Joe Medwick batted for Melton and went out on a grounder to Schoendienst. Marion threw out Stanky. Schoendienst tossed out Whitman. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Ninth Inning Cardinals

Harry Taylor, a right hander went in to pitch for the Dodgers. Kluttz slammed an outside pitch past first base for a single. After missing two attempts to sacrifice, Dickson was called out on strikes. Schoendienst hit into a double play, Stanky to Reese to Stevens. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Ninth Inning Dodgers

Galan lined a double to right center field, as Slaughter just failed to make a backhanded running catch. It was the first hit off Dickson since the first inning and the first blow out of the infield since the fourth inning. F. Walker flied to Moore in short right, Galan remained on second. Stevens tripled to deep centerfield, scoring Galan. Furillo lined a single into centerfield, scoring Stevens and making the score 8 to 3 in the Cards' favor. Munger and Harry Brecheen began warming up in the Cardinal bull pen. Furillo raced to second on Dickson's wild pitch. Reese worked the count to 3 and 2 and walked. Brecheen, a lefthander with a 13-15 record, replaced Dickson on the mound for the Cards. Ralph Branca left the Brooklyn dugout for the bull pen. After fouling off three pitches, Edwards rammed a line single past third into left field to score Furillo and sent Reese to second. Lavagetto, a right hander, batted for Taylor and walked to fill the bases. After watching two called strikes, Stanky took a ball and then was fooled by a fast pitch that cut to the left of the plate for a called strike. Schultz, another righthanded hitter, batted for Whitman. With the count 3 and 2 Brecheen hooked over a curved ball which Schultz missed for the third strike to end the game. Three runs, four hits, no errors, three left.

No Indication Of Relief From Meat Shortage

Truman Says 'In Near Future,' Others 'Not for Some Time'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—President Truman agreed with reconversion director John R. Steelman today that the meat shortage may grow worse this winter.

The president said there is no conflict between a report released today by Steelman and his own views expressed to a news conference last week.

The president, asked at today's news conference if there was a discrepancy, said he had conceded that there will be meat shortage ahead even though he looked for improvement soon but that there will be no meat famine.

That, the president said, does not imply a difference between the two views.

Told that Steelman said the meat shortage would grow worse this winter the president said he was having a survey made and that Steelman may be correct.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The great disappearing hog and cattle act, a colossal presentation now featured at all livestock markets, rolled into its second breath-taking month today before a nationwide audience watching with baffled eyes and meatless digestive tracts.

It was on September 3, the day after Labor day, that the curtain went up on this unparalleled spectacle of the magician's art—to show livestock pens, jammed the week before, empty except for a few dried-up cows and emaciated pigs.

Since then the act has been repeated daily to an utterly unappreciative clientele, and agriculture department statistics for September showed receipts at record lows.

A minor feature of the performance, somewhat overlooked in the concentration on the all-star shortage, is the fact that the beef cows today, in a market controlled by price ceilings, are selling at higher prices than they were in the free markets of July and August.

Traders Bewildered

L. M .Wyatt, head of the local livestock branch of the argiculture department, said good cows brought $14.00-$15.50 late last August and $15.25-$17.25 now, while medium grades had advanced from $11.75-$14.00 to $12.50-$15.25. Beef cows are a major part of the present small arrivals.

How anyone could buy livestock at higher prices, and sell meat at lower prices, and still make a profit, was an incidental item of bewilderment to traders.

With the second month of the performance starting, most critics were predicting it would be taken off the boards. But they couldn't agree on when.

President Truman predicted "in the near future," but price decontrol board chairman Thompson said it would be "some time"; Deputy OPA Administrator Baker gave it "two to four weeks," but Reconversion Director Steelman forecast the shortage "will become worse this winter."

Sportsman's Park Has Been Sold

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3—(AP)—Sportsman's park, home of the St. Louis Browns and Cardinals, and possibly site of the opening game of the world series, has been purchased by the Browns from the Dodier Realty company, it was announced last night.

The realty company has operated the park for the estate of the late Philip de Catesby Ball, one-time owner of both the Browns and the park. Richard C. Muckerman, ice and fuel dealer, is now president of the Browns and the majority stock holder.

The amount involved in the transaction was not disclosed, but the value of the baseball plant has been estimated at $1,000,000 or more. Both Browns and Cardinals have been using it on a rental basis.

Durocher Intends To Stay In Brooklyn

BROOKLYN, Oct. 3—(AP)—All conjecture that Leo Durocher might wind up as 1947 manager of the New York Yankees virtually ended tonight when "the lip" told reporters he expects to stay in Brooklyn "until the day I die."

Sitting in the Dodger clubhouse calmly smoking a cigarette after his Brooklyn ball club had lost the National League pennant in two straight playoff games, the Brooks' skipper told reporters that President Branch Rickey was right when he said "Leo will be in Brooklyn for a long, long time."

Horse Named Flatbush Came In Second

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Adding insult to the injury Brooklynites suffered today when their Dodgers lost the National League pennant playoff, a horse by the name of Flatbush finished second in the eighth race at Belmont park.

Like the Dodgers, Flatbush held on well but Calvados drew away in the stretch to win.

Charge Disturbance

Harry Vahlers, 120 East Chestnut was booked by the police Thursday night, charged with disturbing the peace of Mrs. Eugene Grace. He posted a $50 signed bond and is to appear in court Monday the seventh at 9 a. m.

Asks Business To Maintain Production

Steelman Speaks Against General Big Wage Increases

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—President Truman today called on business, labor and consumers to do their "utmost to keep industrial peace and to "maintain production."

He said in a news conference statement that the reconversion record thus far "adds up to a splendid achievement."

"But," he added, "we must not pause to congratulate ourselves. A difficult struggle lies before us.

"We must do our utmost to keep industrial peace, to maintain production at present levels where it is high and to spur it to higher levels where it is lagging."

Mr. Truman said he hopes that every businessman, worker, farmer and consumer will "take to heart" that "an all-out emphasis on production of finished goods and on preventing a further increase in prices is the task immediately before us."

Could Bring Economic Ruin

He singled out the latter expression of opinion from the quarterly report of reconversion director John R. Steelman. The chief executive's statement was made in connection with the report.

Steelman cautioned that a further rapid price rise might lead to "an early and severe" economic collapse with serious economic and social consequences.

Steelman also spoke out bluntly against a general round of "large" wage increases at this time.

He said these could benefit "only special groups," and in general would do so "at the expense of fellow workers throughout the nation."

'No Immediate Danger Of War'

PARIS, Oct. 3—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes said today he hoped the recent statement of Soviet Prime Minister Stalin had banished the "unwarranted charges" that the United States was using the atomic bomb as a threat against Russia.

Speaking at a luncheon of the American club, the American leader that there was "no immediate danger of war," but acknowledged frankly the "seriousness" of the conflict in viewpoints among the nations.

Referring to Stalin's recent statement to a British newspaperman, Byrnes said, "I hope also that his statement will put an end to the unwarranted charges that the United States is seeking to use its possession of the atomic bomb as a threat of force against the Soviet Union, or that the responsible leaders of the Soviet Union so believe."

He also said:

"I concur most heartily in the view recently expressed by Generalissimo Stalin that there is no immediate danger of war. I hope that his statement will put an end to the unwarranted charges that any nation or group of nations is seeking to encircle the Soviet Union, or that the responsible leaders of the Soviet Union so believe."

(President Truman said in Washington that he was in accord with Byrnes' statements in today's speech. Mr. Truman said he had discussed the speech with Byrnes over the telephone. He told a news conference has given no consideration to another meeting of himself, British Prime Minister Attlee and Prime Minister Stalin.)

Found Guilty, Given 3 Years

MACON, Mo., Oct. 3—(AP)—Ernest D. Chastain, 50, of Bevier, Mo., has been found guilty of "assault with intent to kill" Mike Bruno and sentenced to serve three years in the penitentiary by a jury in the Macon county circuit court. The verdict was returned late yesterday.

The state had charged Chastain with hitting Bruno on the head with an iron bar in the office of the Greenwood Coal Co., here January 28. In the trial, Bruno declared he was unconscious from the blow two days and required hospitalization.

Chastain pleaded self defense.

Special Agents to Investigate Primary

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—The house campaign expenditures committee announced today it is sending two special agents to investigate the Missouri Democratic primary campaign in which Enos Axtell defeated Rep. Slaughter for re-nomination. Axtell was supported by President Truman.

Chairman Priest (D-Tenn) told newsmen the investigation is being made in response to a complaint by Jerome Walsh, third candidate in the race, who contends that excessive expenditures there had "the makings of a national scandal."

Take $1,000 in Silver From Kansas Bank

ALDEN, Kas., Oct. 3—(AP)—Burglars entered the Alden State bank last night and fled with loot that included about $1,000 in silver taken from a vault, Cashier F. L. Fair reported today.

Fair said about 50 lock boxes also were broken open, but that their loss had not been determined.

The cashier discovered the robbery when he reported for work at 9:15 a. m. The burglars, who pried open a rear door, entered the vault by chiseling an 18-inch hole through the 20-inch thick wall of the vault.

Nazi Leaders Acquitted to British Zone

Guaranteed Safe Conduct in the American Zone

NUERNBERG Oct. 3—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. deputy military governor was reported today to have ordered a safe escort to Hamburg for Hjalmar Schacht, Frankz Von Papen and Hans Fritzsche, and 100 German policemen who had assembled to arrest the three acquitted Nuernberg defendants were dispersed.

Attorneys for the three said they probably would leave tonight or early tomorrow, but later indications were that their departure might be delayed until as late as Saturday.

Because of an official blackout on news, there was little word concerning the remaining 18 prisoners condemned to death or sentenced to prison terms.

All three will be taken to Hamburg, from whence Schacht will proceed to his home in Schleswig-Holstein, counsel said.

It could not be learned whether the former German financier would be provided with escort after his arrival in Hamburg.

Fritsche, former deputy propaganda minister, sent his wife to Hamburg yesterday and expressed hope she would be there when he arrived.

Anton Pfeiffer, chief de-Nazification officer for Bavaria, announced he had been instructed to give the three a guarantee of "safe conduct," protecting them from arrest by German de-Nazification courts in the American zone.

Taking Secret Route

Defense counsel said the trio would leave at an unannounced time and would follow a secret route, all in the same automobile. Just what type of escort would be provided was not announced.

The protection granted the three from protection by courts in the American zone, Pfeiffer stressed, is temporary, covering only their departure from the Nuernberg jail and the zone

Pfeiffer said he got his instructions from Brig. Gen. Walter Muller, U. S. military governor of Bavaria.

Instructing Police

The Bavarian indicated that the instructions are being handed down to the Nuernberg German police, who already had been armed with orders to arrest all three as soon as they left jail and bring them before the de-Nazification court.

Interrupt Trial For Ball Game

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3—(AP)—World series interest hit its peak in a courtroom here today.

Circuit Judge Waldo C. Mayfield with the consent of prosecution and defense, interrupted the trial of a Negro for inning-by-inning reports to the entire courtroom as the playoff game in Brooklyn went along.

Crowds formed around radios in front of downtown stores and listened until the end. Then the air was filled with shouts of "hoorah!" and showers of paper came tumbling down from office windows.

St. Louis hotel men knew full well how the Dodgers felt in losing to the Cardinals in the playoff for the National League pennant and world series money. They had already taken their beating.

More vacant hotel rooms were available here last night and the night before than at any time since 1941 because of the postponement of the world series. As a result, the city's hotels had taken a loss estimated by Carl E. Roessler, manager of one of the larger ones, at about $75,000.

Almost all of the persons who expected to attend the opening of the world series, originally scheduled) for yesterday in the event of a regular season Cardinal victory, asked that their reservations be postponed until Saturday or Sunday, but only a few will be able to get accommodations, Roessler said. Hotels had accepted reservations from other travelers for the coming week-end.

More OPA Price Tags Vanish

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—OPA price tags will vanish tomorrow from a list of products including sulphur, many used trucks, most fence posts, steel castings, elastic webbing and cord, and a few automobile parts and accessories.

The OPA announced tonight it is suspending ceilings or exempting these products from controls because supplies are ample or they are unimportant to living or business costs.

The agency also reshuffled price ceilings on certain hemlock and spruce boards and timbers because of what it called "abuse by some mill operators."

Ceilings were removed from sulphur, OPA said, because producers now have more than a full year's supply and prices recently have been below ceilings. No increases are expected from decontrol.

Similarly OPA said the supply of used trucks with a tonnage rating of three tons and above is adequate to meet demands and prices are below ceilings. Lighter trucks still are reported scarce and ceilings are retained.

Price controls also were removed from a long list of military vehicles but were retained on the jeep.

All wooden fence posts were suspended from controls except those made from southern pine.

Freed as unimportant to living or business costs were balloons for weather and radio observations, coated fabric tire covers and these automotive parts when sold by the manufacturer: outsid rear view mirrors, fender guides, grill guards and automobile certificate holders.
